Meeting Designed to Help Relax Tensions Between U.S., Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, today criticized President Kennedy's willingness to discuss with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko the possible relaxation of East-West tensions.

But Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., replied that, "I think president Kennedy would meet with the devil himself if he felt it would make any contribution toward world peace."

Lausche said in a prepared Senate speech that because Gromyko "deliberately lied" about the presence of offensive Soviet missiles in Cuba last year, "I am loathe to believe that President Kennedy could ever again place any credence in what Mr. Gromyko might have to say."

Meeting This Fall

Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin announced after a White House visit Aug. 26 that Kennedy had agreed to discuss with Gromyko this fall what steps might be taken beyond the limited nuclear test ban treaty to relax tensions.

Lausche said he thought he should caution the President "about the honesty, sincerity and veracity of the man with whom he will explore methods and processes for relieving the existing hypertension that plagues the world today."

"Mr. Gromyko lied once and if given the chance he will lie again," Lausche said. "Were it within my power, I would never again let Mr. Gromyko darken the floor of the White House, particularly when he is scheduled to arrive as a symbol of world peace."

Political Explosions

Because Kennedy labeled the Soviet foreign minister's statements at the time of the missile crisis as false, there has been some fear within the administration that Gromyko's arrival in Washington would be the signal for some political explosions.

Republican congressional leaders are known to be assembling background information on the scheduled meeting. But Senate Republican Leader Everett M.

Song's Stock Soaring After Being Arrested

Three Opposition Parties Pick Hero As Their Candidate

SEOUL (AP)—The military regime's abrupt arrest of ailing ex-Premier Yo-Chan (Tiger) Song, a hero of the Korean War, sent his political stock soaring today. One party named him as its candidate for the presidency and other parties rallied to his cause.

While Song languished in dreaded Mapo Prison, the Liberal Democratic party's central committee met in Seoul and unanimously nominated him to oppose strongman Gen. Chung Hee Park in the presidential election Oct. 15.

Many Koreans had expressed belief Song's surprise arrest Wednesday was prompted by reports the Liberal Democrats intended to nominate him. The Liberal Democratic party was organized Tuesday as a breakaway movement from Park's Democratic Republican party.

Unprecedented Move

In an unprecedented move, three major opposition parties merged and decided to select one candidate to oppose strongman Park.

"There is an apparent danger of a free election atmosphere being destroyed," the new party said in a statement denouncing Song's arrest.

Two other parties, while staying out of the new coalition, issued statements charging the latest arrest of Song was an attempt by the military regime to intimidate opponents and destroy any possibility of the elections being free.

Civilian politicians have charged that although Park has resigned from the army and will run as a civilian, he and his followers intend to extend military rule through rigged elections.

In Washington, the State Department termed Song's re-arrest "high-handed."

Picketing Mars Fall Opening of Chicago School

Fifteen Arrested After Sit-in in Principal's Office

CHICAGO (AP) — Demonstrations and picketing by civil rights groups and Negro parents at six public elementary schools and at the board of education headquarters marked the opening of classes for the fall semester Wednesday.

Fifteen persons were arrested, including seven women and six men who staged a sit-in at the office of the principal of a school on the South Side. The 13, most of them Negroes, were charged with criminal trespassing. One also was charged with resisting arrest.

Two men were seized by police as they sat in a car near the school and played amplified tape recordings, urging a boycott of the school.

"Race Minded"

The demonstrators contend that the school principal, Willard A. Johnston, is "race-minded, and dictatorial and has permitted mistreatment of pupils."

Johnston denied the charges. He called police after the 13 demonstrators had sat in his office about an hour as other demonstrators paraded in front of the school.

Johnston said: "They are gunning for me because I am a white principal of an all-Negro school in an all-Negro neighborhood."

Pickets and demonstrators appeared at five other schools in predominantly Negro neighborhoods. Negro groups have been protesting the installation of mobile classrooms at several schools. Leaders claim the temporary classrooms set up to relieve

Peterson Says Draft Goldwater Plan Has No Effect on Primary

MADISON (AP) — Republican State Chairman Talbot Peterson said Wednesday the appointment of a chairman to head a Wisconsin committee to draft Sen. Barry Goldwater for the GOP presidential nomination race shed no light on the Arizona senator's plans for Wisconsin's 1964 preferential primary.

"We are four months away from the moment of decision as far as Sen. Goldwater and any other candidates are concerned," said Peterson in a statement released by the GOP headquarters.

Peterson, of Appleton, commented after the appointment of Wayne J. Hood of La Crosse, a former state GOP chairman, to head the Wisconsin Goldwater committee. The 50-year-old Hood was executive director of the Republican National Committee during the 1962 presidential campaign.

Peterson called Hood's appointment "an excellent choice."

Humid Night and Gunfire

Birmingham Scene

BY DON MCKEE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—

Gunfire spouted with angry connotations in the humid night air on Center Street, making quick orange flashes in the dark.

It was like a battle.

Staccato reports from carbines were punctuated by the booming of shotguns.

Helmets policemen, holding firearms in military fashion, backed the spectators. One cordon of officers formed and faced down Ninth Court, pushing Negroes in front of them.

is a church and to the south is another church.

A group of Negro youngsters ran toward the scene.

"Nobody better run or be hurt!" one said. They ran on but were stopped two long blocks short of Shores' house. Shores, his wife and 17-year-old daughter escaped injury in the blast.

At half a dozen points in the sealed-off area, policemen chased back the spectators. One cordon of officers formed and faced down Ninth Court, pushing Negroes in front of them.

A Negro Civil Defense captain

James Lay, pleaded with a white police officer. Lay had a megaphone. He had been pleading with the Negroes to disperse. Already two had been shot and one of them died.

"I could've talked them into going home," he said.

"Talking don't do no good," responded the white officer curtly. "You've been doing a good job but talking won't work."

Two of the policemen looked inside a parked schoolbus.

"Come outta there!" one said, brandishing his shotgun.

A young Negro man, his wife holding a baby in her arms, and two other Negro men got out of the bus.

"Lie down! Lie down!" ordered one of the policemen.

The Negro mother tried to lie down on the grass with her baby in her arms. She handed the infant to her husband who was on his knees, trying to get down.

"Lie down!" shouted the police-

Police Riot Squads Busy Holding Back Screaming Mobs on 'Dynamite Hill'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — The bombing of a Negro leader's home and a wild outbreak of racial violence marked by the fatal shooting of another Negro led to a temporary postponement today of Birmingham's public school desegregation.

Gov. George C. Wallace moved back into the picture with an early morning announcement that the city Board of Education had agreed to close three schools ordered integrated by the federal courts. They opened for registration Wednesday and classes were scheduled today.

An explosion heard two miles away broke a calm of several hours after two Negroes had enrolled at one of the schools.

The home of Arthur Shores had been bombed again — the second time in three weeks.

Screaming Negroes

Screaming Negroes in the neighborhood rushed to the home of the attorney who has been a leader for years in the fight of his race against segregation. Police riot squads poured in.

Rock throwing by the resentful Negroes followed, then gunfire by officers as a melee involving hundreds of Negroes and scores of city and county policemen raged for more than an hour.

John L. Coley, 20, fell with three bullets in his head and body. He died later at a hospital.

At least 20 other persons were injured, two of them Negroes also struck by bullets. The injured included four policemen.

Wallace's announcement from the executive mansion at Montgomery, made through an aide on the scene here, came at 4:20 a.m.

State Troopers

State troopers went on guard with other officers around Birmingham schools early today for the first time. City and county officers had handled the assignment Wednesday.

More than 40 bombings have occurred in Birmingham since 1947, many of them in "Dynamite Hill," a Negro community once densely populated by whites.

Constance Baker Motley, an attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said legal action might be taken to reopen the schools.

"We will probably do something in the next couple hours," she said.

The attorney gave no indication as to what moves might be made.

The areas near West End and Ramsay high schools, which were to have been integrated today, were quiet.

Roy Cohn Says He's Victim of Personal Revenge

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy M. Cohn, anti-communist investigator for the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, says he is the victim of "personal revenge and retaliation" following the indictment accusing him of perjury and obstruction of justice in a stock fraud probe.

Cohn, 36, an attorney, was indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury along with another Manhattan lawyer, Murray E. Gottesman, 56. Both were charged with scheming to prevent the indictment of four men in a 1959 inquiry into a United Dry and Chemical Corp. stock swindle.

Cohn and Gottesman immediately denied the charges.

Wants Soviets to Remove Military Forces From Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., demanded today a formal reservation postponing the effectiveness of the limited nuclear test ban treaty until the Soviets remove their military forces from Cuba.

Goldwater, regarded as a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said he would offer such a reservation after the Senate takes up the treaty next week.

If the Senate adopts a formal reservation, it might require renegotiation of the treaty. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 16-1 last week to recommend ratification without any reservation.

Potential Peril

In a speech prepared for the Senate, Goldwater declared that as it now stands, the treaty is "a potential peril to peace rather than a step toward it."

Goldwater has been a frequent critic of the treaty, but administration forces say they are confident the Senate will approve the pact overwhelmingly.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said today he thinks no more than five Republican votes will be cast against ratification.

Goldwater also called for another reservation, originally proposed by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, formally reserving the right of the United

Anti-Soviet Defenses Being Built in China

Boy Wonder, Famous Communist Hunter and Brilliant Attorney — Descriptions of Roy Cohn

NEW YORK (AP) — At the age of 36, Roy M. Cohn has been a boy wonder as a student and a famous hunter of communists. He is a brilliant lawyer, a boxing promoter, a bigtime businessman and an eminently eligible bachelor.

Wednesday Cohn was indicted on federal charges of perjury and obstruction of justice stemming from a stock fraud case.

Cohn, who is said to earn $250,000 a year from his law practice, lives in a large apartment on New York's Park Avenue with his mother. His father, Justice Albert Cohn of the

New York state supreme court, died in 1959.

After business hours, Cohn relaxes on the golf course or goes deep sea fishing. He also travels abroad several times a year.

Cohn, an only child, was born in the Bronx on Feb. 20, 1927. He played the piano, went to the Fieldston School in the Bronx, and sailed through Columbia College and Columbia Law School to graduate at the age of 20. He had to wait until he was 21 to take the bar examination.

He began as a clerk in the office of the U.S. attorney for the southern district of New York, was admitted to the bar in 1948, and became an assistant U.S. attorney.

In 1953 Cohn became chief counsel for the Permanent Senate Subcommittee on Investigations under the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican. Cohn was the chief interrogator in the televised Army - McCarthy hearings on alleged communist influence in the armed forces. After the 36 days of TV hearings, McCarthy was censured by the Senate and Cohn resigned by request.

Becomes Law Partner

Cohn then returned to New York and became a principal partner in the law firm of Saxe, Bacon & O'Shea.

In 1959 he and some associates took over the ailing Lionel Corporation, founded by Cohn's great-uncle, Joshua Lionel Cowen. The firm then was known chiefly for its model trains.

With Cohn as chairman, the company went into electronics

but failed to show a profit. Earlier this year, Cohn stepped down as chairman of the board.

He is an associate of Feature Sports, Inc., which promoted the second Patterson-Johnson fight.

Cohn also was involved in the fight for control of New York's Fifth Avenue Coach Lines, the bus company seized by the city last year to prevent a strike. He recently resigned as a director of the company and as chairman of two company committees.

During Cohn's tenure with the Senate subcommittee, a young man joined the staff as an assistant and succeeded Cohn as chief counsel. He was Robert F. Kennedy, now the attorney general, whose Justice Department has obtained the indictment of Cohn.

Lawrence Says James Landis Deserves Our Help, Sympathy Society Must Aid Him in His Return To Fruitful Work

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—A human problem that concerns the future of one man can sometimes be challenging as well as baffling. To rescue a man—trapped in a coal mine, for instance, hundreds of feet below ground—heroic feats of daring have been tried and have been successful. But how shall a man be saved from himself and the ailments that have dragged him down to disrepute?

The nation has just read that James M. Landis, a respected lawyer, a former government official of prominence and an able public servant, failed to pay his income taxes for the years 1956 through 1960, and now has been sentenced to a prison term for his offense. He was earning large sums—enough to pay what was due the government. He pleaded guilty to willful failure to pay and, when the Internal Revenue Service served him with its demand for payment, he complied. He gave in court the explanation that he had been too busy with his work to file his returns. Yet this man was Chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission in the 1930's by appointment of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and later became Chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board under President Truman. He served under President Kennedy for a few months in 1961 as special adviser on problems of the regulatory agencies of the federal government. He had been Dean of the Harvard Law School from 1937 to 1946 and had been a member of a prominent New York City law firm. What, then, is the real explanation for this strange behavior? The public is left to guess or infer what it wishes from a reading of the remarks made in the courtroom by Judge Sylvester J. Ryan of the U.S. District Court as he sentenced Mr. Landis to serve three concurrent terms of 30 days each in prison and to undergo a year of probation. Judge Ryan said in part: "It is not a pleasant task . . .

you still have fruitful years before you. You still can perform some service for the government. I think you and I understand each other. . . .

"You and I are old men and we have human weaknesses. I have the psychiatric report in front of me. I know the habit you formed is difficult to control. It entrapped many, many brilliant men like you. Here I'm giving you a sermon. You could give me a sermon, I'm sure. Maybe we'd both be right . . . but I can't let you go today. I must impose sentence on you in fairness to justice."

"Maybe you can take your place back in life where you belong. I hope God will give you the strength and character to overcome your affliction."

But what was the "habit" to which the judge referred? News-men later wrote that they had learned that it was not narcotics or drugs. At one point Judge Ryan in his comments in court had said:

"The probation report also shows that he (the defendant) is receiving for some period of time psychiatric treatment. He has been emotionally involved as far back as 1945."

Mr. Landis has been brought to court from the neurological institute of Columbia—Presbyterian Medical Center, where he has been for several weeks. When asked by the judge to make any statement he wished, Mr. Landis replied:

Makes It Brief

"I'd like to make this brief. I don't know how I can add much to the case. I'd like to express my regret, and, indeed, my repentance, for the folly that led me to put off the filing of these returns. I was getting my work back into shape."

The causes of lapses of memory or emotional disturbances are not easily ascertained. Sometimes psychiatric treatment has been of little avail. There have been cases of irregular behavior, too, in which no particular habits have been involved, yet individuals have deliberately committed acts of dishonesty in violation of the law. In one instance dealt with here many years ago, a very wealthy man with no previous record of any bad habits, such as alcoholism or narcotics, not only failed to pay his income tax but, even after he had been penalized for this, repeated the same offense not long afterwards. The speculation in that case turned toward various aberrations. Were there not days or hours when some thought might have been given to the payment of one's income taxes? Medical experts say that sometimes a kind of blind spot or delusion arises with respect to a single subject, and the individual himself seems helpless to evaluate it or to overcome it.

September Song for Creative Cooks

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

September has been called the somber month . . . but it isn't . . . it's beautiful in its last glimpses of summer tinged here and there with the golden and scarlet hues of autumn. There's an early morning bite to the air that makes bustling a pleasure and yet the afternoons often turn into long golden ones. The harvest is at its peak with fruits and vegetables at their best . . . food shopping is a pleasure because of the abundant variety.

Vacation days are over for most . . . youngsters are back in school or on their way and the prelude to a new season has begun. There still are days ahead for pleasant picnicking and weekend treks in comfort . . . but the homemaker begins to sharpen her kitchen pencil and plan ahead for heartier menus to fit the season.

Somehow menu planning is more fun in September . . . maybe it's because the household has slipped into a work-a-day routine . . . yet meals three times a day seem to take on more meaning. Certainly they can be a joy to prepare with all the abundance around.

The recipes chosen for today have both aye and appetite appeal. Some are old favorites with a new twist and all are interesting recipes that seem to fit the mood of changing September itself.

Noodle-Stuffed Tomato Casserole

- 1 tablespoon salt
- 3 quarts boiling water
- 8 ounces fine egg noodles
- 2 tablespoons salad oil
- 1 pound ground beef chuck
- 1 medium-sized onion, chopped
- 6 large beefsteak tomatoes (about 1 pound each)
- 1/2 teaspoon basil
- Salt to taste
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons dry sherry (optional)

Add tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add noodles so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally until noodles are tender. Drain in colander.

Heat oil; add beef and onion; cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, until beef is lightly browned.

Cut slice from tops of tomatoes. Scoop out tomato pulp, leaving one-half inch shell. Reserve shells.

Add noodles, tomato pulp, basil, salt, pepper and sherry to beef mixture. Mix well, then fill reserved tomato shells with mixture. Turn remaining noodle mixture into greased shallow baking dish. Top with stuffed tomatoes and bake in 350-degree oven for 30 minutes or until tomatoes are tender. Recipe makes four to six servings.

Rice Stuffed Cabbage Rolls

- 1 head cabbage (2 1/2 to 3 pounds)
- Boiling salted water
- 1/3 cup margarine or butter
- 1 cup finely chopped onion
- 3 cups cooked rice (do not use quick cooking variety)

- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1/2 cup seedless raisins (optional)
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 4 to 6 tablespoons margarine or butter

- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 16 ounces canned tomato sauce
- 1/4 cup water
- 2 tomatoes, peeled and cut into

The Enticing Aroma of this Veal Scallopini comes from herbs and flavorings, including the Italian favorite, oregano, a dash of garlic salt and parsley flakes. But a modern surprise touch is the use of lemon-lime carbonated beverage as the blending liquid. Serve this flavorful main dish with a tossed salad, hard-boiled eggs and cheese wedges. Cantaloup and seedless green grapes make a wonderful dessert ending to an elegant meal.

Apple Pie's In Season

It's apple time in Wisconsin with the 1963 crop equal to last year's, according to the Wisconsin State Department of Agriculture.

A number of apple varieties already are available, but the major ones are the early McIntosh, Wealthy and Cortland.

Cheese Crumble Apple Pie

- 1 pkg. pie crust mix
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 tablespoons butter

- 2 cups shredded cheddar cheese
- 2 to 2 1/2 tablespoons water
- 3 pounds cooking apples, peeled and sliced
- 1 tablespoon flour
- Freshly grated nutmeg

Measure one cup pie crust mix; combine with sugars and cinnamon. Cut in butter thoroughly. Set aside to be used as topping.

Mix one cup cheddar cheese into remaining pie crust mix. Blend with two or two and one-half tablespoons water. Roll dough; line pie plate. Place sliced apples in pastry-lined plate, sprinkling flour evenly through them. Sprinkle with nutmeg, and cover with half of the crumble mixture. Sprinkle remaining cup cheddar cheese over all. Top with remaining crumble mixture. Bake in a pre-heated, 375-degree oven for about 40 minutes or until apples are tender and crust is done.

This Is An Easy main dish that fits the season. It's Noodle-Stuffed Tomato Casserole that combines those big, meaty tomatoes with egg noodles and beef. Scooped out tomatoes are filled with a flavorful beef, noodle and tomato mixture and then are baked atop a bed of noodles to make some delicious eating.

There's Nothing Ordinary about the unusual meat-and-potato dish above that combines pork sausage, ground beef, mashed sweet potatoes with orange juice and a sparkling topping of current jelly and tomato sauce. Easily made, this dinner or luncheon loaf can be made to look "fussy" with its garnish of orange slices and bits of marshmallow topping. It takes tasting to believe when served thinly sliced with tiny peas and a basket of hot rolls.

Flavorful, Money-Saving Stews

BY MARY-BETH KUESTER

Surely stews were the first hot, one-dish meals ever devised. Cooked on top of the range, they preclude ovens. Today stews are the perfect menu when you want the oven free for a home-made hot bread or baked dessert. In fact, they're the perfect selection any time you want delicious, robust eating that's economical. Stews make the most of less tender and less expensive cuts of meats.

The basic ingredient—meat or fish—isn't the only ingredient responsible for the great range of taste treats offered by stews. Different combinations of vegetables, spices, herbs and liquid, stock, bouillon or gravy are all important.

Long slow cooking, in addition to tenderizing, blends the multitude of flavors into one subtle, magnificent whole. The automatic surface unit on the range simplifies cooking stew. Stew can be cooked without danger of burning dry.

Stew is frozen more successfully if vegetables are added after freezing. Just follow recipe to point where meat is cooked. Cool and freeze meat and liquid. Before serving, bring meat and liquid to boil, add vegetables and proceed as directed in individual stew recipe.

Two 2-pound heads of cabbage may be used if needed to obtain 12 large leaves. Cook and chop enough of remainder for desired filling.
Discard outer leaves of cabbage; remove cabbage core. Hold cabbage under cold running water and gently remove 12 large leaves. Allow water to run between leaf and cabbage head for easy removal. Place 12 leaves and remainder of head in two to three inches of boiling salted water in kettle. Cover and cook until almost tender, about seven minutes. Drain and cool.

Melt one-third cup margarine or butter in small skillet. Add one cup chopped onion; cook over low heat, stirring frequently, until tender.

Combine rice, eggs, raisins, salt, pepper and cooked onion-butter mixture in large bowl. Chop cooked cabbage head (not the leaves) to make about four cups and toss with rice mixture. Place about one-half cup of tossed mixture at stem end of each cabbage leaf. Fold stem end over filling. Fold sides over and roll up. Fasten with wooden picks if necessary (and it usually is necessary to keep the rolls firmly shaped during browning and simmering).

Melt about four tablespoons butter or margarine in large skillet. Add several cabbage rolls; cook

Look for Suspicious Behavior

A policeman is trained to look for suspicious behavior. He pays no attention to people who are walking in a normal manner; he jumps into action if he sees somebody skulking along. A good bridge policeman must be ready to observe the skulker at the bridge table.

hand and returned the jack of spades down dummy.

Obvious Skulduggery

This was an obvious bit of skulduggery. West should have said to himself: "What can the wretch be doing with spades? Why isn't he working on the diamonds like a normal human being?"

From this kind of alert questioning it would be just a step to putting up the ace of spades. West would then knock out the ace of hearts. South would have to lead diamonds very soon, and then West would take the ace of diamonds and the hearts.

When the hands were actually played, West foolishly played a low spade on South's jack—hoping that South was about to take a losing finesse to a queen that East couldn't possibly hold.

This allowed South to steal one spade trick. Now he could switch to diamonds and run nine tricks.

Daily Question

Dealer bids one spade, your partner doubles, and the next player passes. You hold ♠852, ♥843, ♦93, ♣10854. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two clubs. The weaker your hand, the more essential the takeout.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Spider Veins

A lively asks: What causes spider veins on the face and what can be done about them? Mine have become quite numerous, and my make-up no longer covers them.

The Answer: The condition is caused by broken capillaries—minute, thin-walled blood vessels which lie close to the skin's surface. Breaks are due to bruising, to improper skin care techniques and, sometimes, to a health problem.

Unless you know yourself to be in good health, a medical check-up is indicated. To prevent the development of additional broken vessels, handle your skin with a feather touch. Squeezing, pummeling and stretching the skin are out. Above all, never apply ice or steaming—hot water to the face.

What's needed in the way of make-up is a completely opaque foundation. There are two types. One comes in cake form and is sponged on. The other is a cream, applied like any other cream foundation and then set with a colorless finishing powder.

By a method that has proven very successful, dermatologists can render the broken vessels scarcely noticeable. The process entails the insertion of a fine elec-

Facial flaws both large and small can be repaired by make-up. How to give the illusion of perfection to imperfect features is detailed in my leaflet, "Make-up Make - Believe." More Gals In Public Service

MADISON — More women will be employed in public service administrative capacities in the future, says a lady political scientist on the staff of the University of Wisconsin.

The forecast was made by Ruth Baumann, assistant professor of political science in the University of Wisconsin Extension division, in a paper estimating the changes in public administration that will result from the expanding population and the continued urban growth in the state and the country.

Full Equality? Miss Baumann commented that governmental employee classifications have generally upheld the principle of pay equality for the sexes, but added that "the scarcity of women in top-level government jobs casts doubts on equality of treatment after employment." "More women are going to be come public employees," Miss Baumann said flatly. "Between 1980 and 1970 nearly one half of all women age 35-44 will be looking for a job. Many institutions of higher learning are looking up to offer graduate and post-graduate programs for women whose careers have been interrupted or who want to go into new careers."

In forecasting changes in public administration generally, as well as to urban population growth, Prof. Baumann wrote that many public administrators have been ill-equipped in formal education, self-education or in service training "to operate knowledgeably in this ever-changing environment."

"The tasks of public administration are being performed more and more in a rapidly changing urban complex removed from grassroots decision-making," she observed.

Decay-Proof Redwood

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: We are remodeling and would like to add an open wood deck and a flight of stairs to our home. Where could we get suggestions about types? What kind of wood is recommended?

A: A booklet, "Redwood Decks," contains illustrations of various decks and finishes, is available free from California Redwood Association, 617 Montgomery St., San Francisco 11. Your building supplies dealer might have literature available.

Generally, redwood, or red or black Southern cypress are preferred because of the high decay resistance of these woods. But any good seasoned lumber, thoroughly treated with a good wood preservative, should give good service.

Add Fireplace

Q: We want to install a fireplace in our recreation room in the basement. This would be under the fireplace in our living room. Could we connect the new fireplace to the same chimney?

A: If there is an additional flue in the chimney, yes. Otherwise, no. There should never be more than one opening into a flue. Two fires connected to a single flue will interfere with the proper draft for each.

Q: We have a pair of aluminum and redwood chairs which we find very comfortable and would like to use indoors. We would like to paint the aluminum black so it wouldn't look so conspicuous in the living room. What kind of paint should be used?

A: Aluminum is not the most satisfactory surface for painting. Wipe the metal thoroughly with turpentine and steel wool to remove all trace of grease and grime, and to slightly roughen the aluminum surface for better bond for paint. Then use a good quality metal enamel, following label directions carefully.

Repairing Desk

Q: My grandfather gave his old roll top desk to my son. There are a couple of small splits in the part that rolls up and down. How can these be repaired?

A: The slats of the roll top are probably fastened to paper. Remove all old glue and paper with sandpaper, down to the wood surface. Then apply a piece of lightweight muslin, using thick shellac as the adhesive: First, apply a

Entrance Halls

Entrance halls deserve flattering attention if they're to flatter the rest of the house. This one sets the scene with and for French furniture, and bespeaks both the charm and practicality of rooms beyond it. With just two pieces of furniture within the limited space, it previews coming attractions from the entrance door view, and is equally appealing glimpsed from the living room.

A drop-leaf dining server takes more responsibility than is possible for the usual hall console, chest or wall-hugging table. It stores generously, and moves when duty calls to set up buffet service in the living room. The window wall is treated to fabric shutters, which become increasingly popular for more reason than good looks. Fabric needs hemming only to stretch between rods on the wooden frames, and the rods remove easily when fabric must be cleaned. Brown and

Ball Finishes Talks With Pakistanis

American Unable to Quell Khan's Fears of Aggression by India

BY ALAN KENNEDY
RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—U.S. Undersecretary of State George Ball ended a three-day visit to Pakistan today, saying he had had excellent talks with Pakistani leaders and "we have a better understanding of each other's point of view."

Although he failed to win a specific promise from President Ayub Khan not to move closer to Red China, Ball said his job, ordered by President Kennedy, was fulfilled. He had been sent to probe Pakistan's intention toward the Communist bloc.

"This was meant to be a conversation between two friendly governments and not a negotiating mission," he told newsmen.

American sources said Ball had the clear impression that Pakistan did not contemplate a mutual defense pact with Communist China nor any other approach to Peking that would contradict Pakistan's role in anti-Communist alliances.

The Undersecretary flies now to Portugal for further talks with Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar — Chief of another Western allied government with which the United States has been having differences.

Aides said he plans to report to President Kennedy Monday and would have a great deal to tell the chief executive about his frank discussions here.

The talks here were reported to have achieved their chief aim — searching discussion and deeper understanding of each other's point of view.

U.S. sources said Ball had again assured Ayub that the United States would protect Pakistan against aggression from any quarter. But they reported he has failed to quiet Pakistan's fear of Indian attack or allay resentment over U.S. military aid to India, Pakistan's neighbor and old enemy.

This has been the major topic in the talks Ball has conducted for the past three days.

President Kennedy sent Ball to Pakistan, an ally in two defense pacts and recipient of Western military aid, to learn its intentions in recent moves toward the Chinese Communists.

Trade Air Facts
The United States has been concerned over Pakistani-Chinese border, trade and air transport agreements, all negotiated since the Chinese Communists attacked India last fall.

Angered by the stepped up flow of U.S. arms to India after the Indian-Chinese border fighting, various Pakistan officials have talked of quitting the Central Treaty Organization and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, both anti-Communist defense groupings.

Washington believes Pakistan's fear of Indian aggression has no basis in fact, U.S. sources said. As long as the fear exists, however, Ball appeared headed for a setback in trying to convince Pakistan that a joint defense with India of the India subcontinent would be to their mutual advantage. Kennedy had asked Ball to stress such an arrangement.

Heart of Polish Hero Now Rests in Museum
WARSAW (AP) — The heart of Tadeusz Kosciuszko, Polish hero of the American Revolution, has been transferred to the Warsaw National museum from a vault of the Warsaw Roman Catholic Cathedral.

The Polish press agency said today an urn containing the heart was returned to the museum from the church where it was placed for safekeeping at the outbreak of World War II.

Kosciuszko returned to Europe after his exploits in the United States and died a natural death in Switzerland at 71.

Lins Says He Doesn't Plan To Resign From Commission
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Sausage manufacturer Fred E. Lins said Wednesday night he has no plans to resign from the Community Social Development Commission, despite a campaign by the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

Lins said he is not a bigot, is not prejudiced against Negroes and will keep the secret to which he was appointed by County Board Chairman Eugene Grobbschmidt.

CORE has demanded his resignation or removal because of what it said were bigoted statements attributed to him in a newspaper interview.

The CORE demonstration began last week with a courthouse sit-in which resulted in 10 arrests. It continued Wednesday

Swiss Plane Crash Killed Almost Complete Generation of Village

BY HANS NEUERBOURG

DUERRENAESCH, Switzerland (AP)—Switzerland today mourned for victims of its worst airline disaster, a crash that killed 80 persons, including almost a complete generation of the farming village of Humlikon.

"This is worse than a war," said a farmer in Humlikon after being informed that his parents were among the 43 passengers from his village killed when a Swissair twin-jet Caravelle from Zurich exploded and crashed in fog Wednesday. All 74 passengers and six crewmen were killed.

Humlikon lost about one-fifth of its 217 population. The community also lost its mayor and all councilmen.

With the other villagers, they were heading to Geneva to visit an agricultural experiment station.

For many of the villagers, it was their first flight. There were 19 married couples among them. They left 40 orphans.

Despair and disbelief hung over Humlikon. No children played. Red-eyed adults conversed in whispers.

Worse Than War

Said Gottfried Meisterhans, 28, whose parents perished in the disaster:

"This is terrible. This is worse than war because it wiped out virtually a whole generation. 'My parents wanted so badly to make this flight. I would have loved to go too, but my parents thought I and my wife would have more chances to fly. So we agreed that they make the trip. This is fate.'"

"What shall we do now? How can people be able to continue here? All fields are worked by the families themselves. None has a farm hand."

body was found after the $3-million French-built airliner, bound for Geneva and Rome, plowed into a grassy field on the outskirts of Duerrnaesch. Blasting a crater 18 feet deep, it disintegrated. The biggest piece of wreckage found was a six-foot section of one wing.

One American
Among the dead was one American, Emerson Glauner Jr., 36, of Rockton, Ill. Glauner, a divisional sales manager of the Beloit Corporation, manufacturer of papermaking machinery, was on his way to a paper mill in France.

Six foreigners and 66 Swiss made up the passenger list. All the crew members were Swiss.

The crash occurred eight minutes after the plane had taken off and shortly after the pilot had radioed a "Mayday" disaster signal and desperately cried "No more! No more!"

Rumors circulated that the plane may have been sabotaged after some witnesses said it disintegrated in the air. But Col. Karl Hoegger of the Swiss Federal Air Office said evidence collected so far appeared to rule out foul play.

"But," he added, "of course I cannot prove this."

Kennedy to Honor 2 Famed Republicans on Fall Tour

Teddy Roosevelt, Gifford Pinchot Pioneers in Conservation Work

BY FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will salute two Republicans, Theodore Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot, at the start of his 10-state conservation tour later this month.

Kennedy, it was learned today, will begin his Sept. 25-29 trip by flying to Millford, Pa., to visit the former Pinchot home which soon will become a national historic site.

Pinchot, who died in 1946, was a pioneer conservationist who won fame as head of the U.S. Forest Service during the administration of Theodore Roosevelt, one of the most conservation-minded presidents.

The White House says the Kennedy trip will be nonpolitical, and his brief stop at the Pinchot home doubtless will be cited as evidence supporting this claim. Kennedy, however, is not unmindful of potential political benefits from his appearances—many in areas he will not have time to visit in the 1964 presidential campaign.

Visit Major Cities

Although most stops will involve inspection of conservation and resource development projects, Kennedy also plans to visit such population centers as San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Portland, Ore., and Duluth, Minn.

While details have not been announced, this tentative trip schedule has been worked out.

After the stop in Pennsylvania, Kennedy will fly to Duluth to address an Agriculture Department conference on land and people.

This lunch hour appearance will be followed by a flight to North Dakota to view the Garrison diversion project on the Missouri River and to speak in Fargo, Grand Forks or Minot.

Later in the day, he is expected to fly to Jackson Hole, Wyo., to spend the night at that scenic spot near Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks.

On Sept. 26, Kennedy plans to go to Montana to speak at Billings and Great Falls—the state's largest cities—and, perhaps, to see Yellowstone Dam near Billings. From Montana, Kennedy will fly to Utah to see Flaming Gorge Dam and other projects before going to Salt Lake City for a speech and an overnight stay. While in Salt Lake, Kennedy may meet with David McKay, president of the Mormon Church.

Dam Observance

Kennedy will fly to Washington State on Sept. 27 where several possible appearances are being

Orders Issued Hiking Minimum Pay of Women

MADISON (AP) — Order increasing the minimum wage for women and minors in some employment categories were issued by the Wisconsin Industrial Commission Wednesday.

The minimums for women and minors over 16 years of age will go up 10 cent to 86 cents an hour in communities of more than 1,000 population, and to 85 cents in other communities this year. Next year the minimums will go to $1.10 per hour in larger communities and $1.00 in others.

Exempt occupations include domestic helps and small community telephone operators who have switchboards in their homes.

The state has no minimum wage for men, but most are covered by federal regulations.

The commission amended its rule on restaurants to permit the employment of girls 16 years of age. The former minimum age was 17.

Canada Plans Larger Roles in U.N. Force

OTTAWA (AP) — Informed sources said Canada plans to offer a larger and more flexible Canadian force for U.N. peace-keeping operations around the world.

Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, who will attend the opening session of the U.N. General Assembly in New York Sept. 17, plans to sound out other countries on the proposal before making a public commitment, the informants reported Wednesday.

considered. One would involve observance of the 30th anniversary of Grand Coulee Dam, the other dedication of a program to generate power from steam produced from an atomic reactor at Hanford.

In Oregon, later that day, Kennedy is expected to dedicate a housing for the elderly project in Portland and inspect the Oregon Dunes National Seashore before going to San Francisco to spend the night.

On Sept. 28, Kennedy plans to fly to the Point Reyes National Seashore north of San Francisco, then to Winesap National Seashore before going to Las Vegas. In Nevada, he is likely to inspect Hoover Dam and Lake Mead.

According to present plans, the tour will wind up at Palm Springs, Calif., where Kennedy will spend about a day and a half relaxing before his return to Washington.

Action Postponed On Dairy Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Action on a proposed new dairy price support program, sponsored by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and others, has been postponed by Senate leaders for at least two weeks.

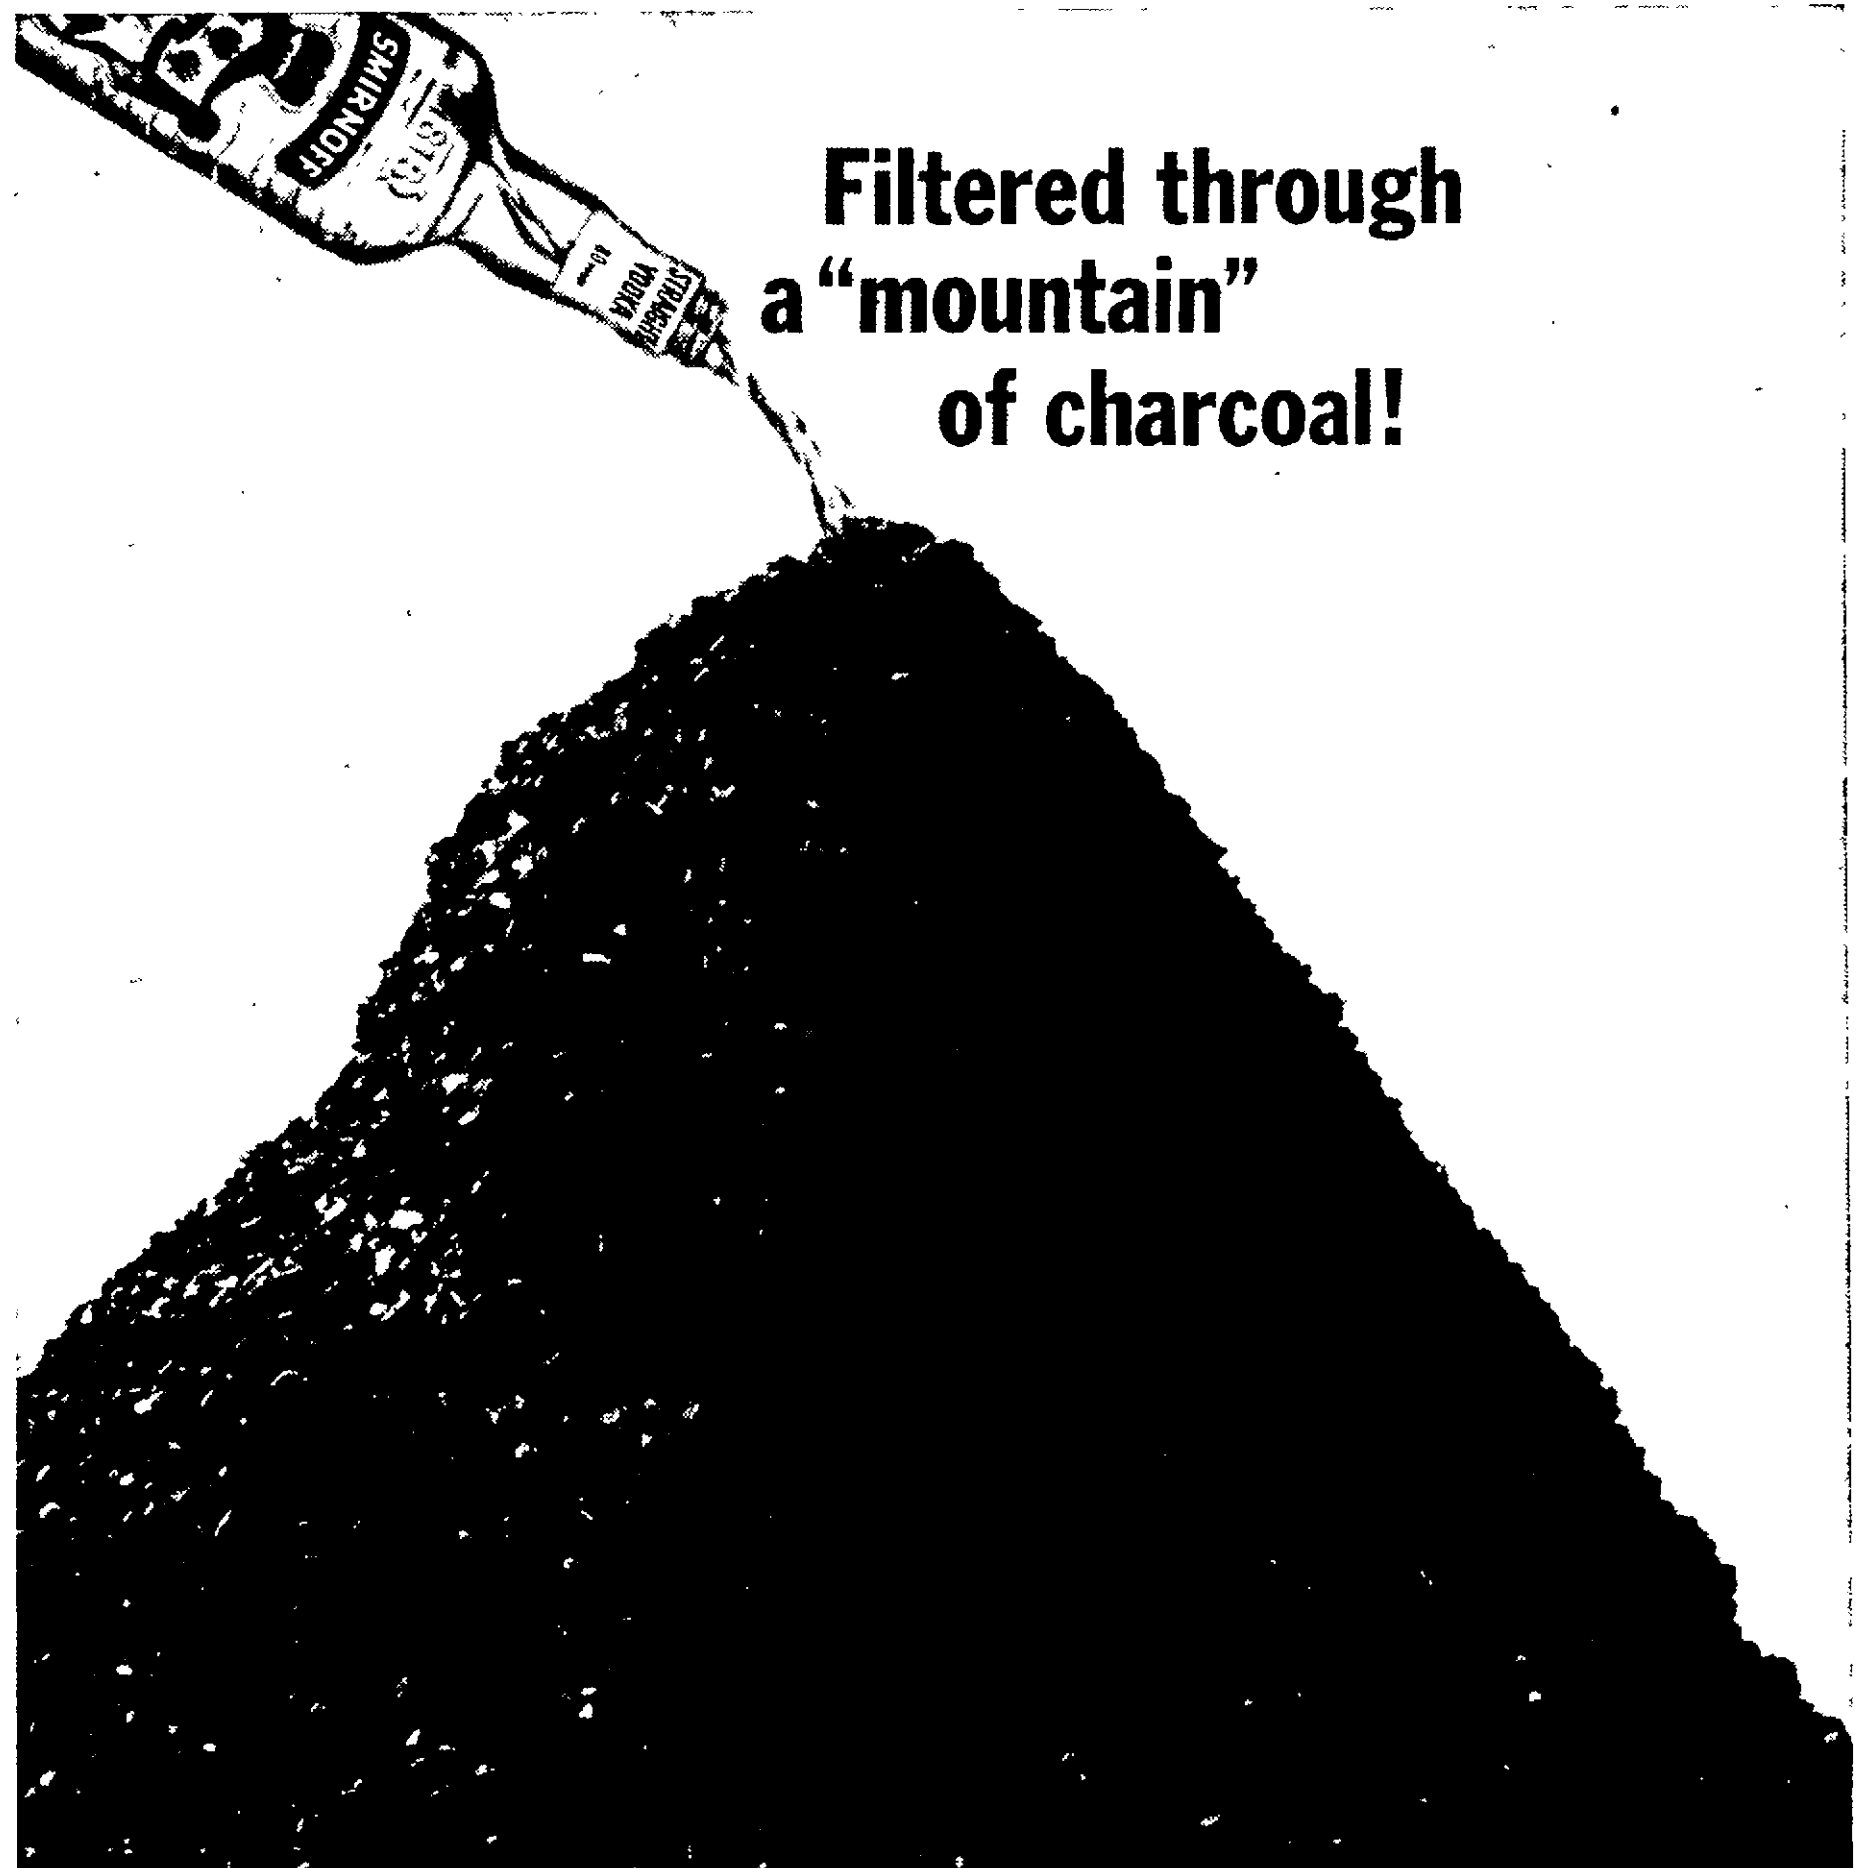

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana had planned floor consideration of the plan this week, but he said Wednesday that several senators had asked that it be delayed until after debate on the limited nuclear test ban treaty is completed.

The bill would establish a two-price system of supports on milk now sold under federal milk marketing orders instead of present combined or blend support levels.

Dublin Says That Pigs Unwelcome in Homes

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Dublin's fair city ruled Wednesday the Irish must keep their pigs at least 200 feet from dwellings.

The corporation's streets committee passed a law forbidding piggeries anywhere within that radius of dwellings. There are 211 of them involved. The city said owners would be compensated for removals to other legal areas.

Fox Lutheran '11' Opens Campaign At Weyauwega

Foxes Umnus Experiments in Effort to Gain Versatility

BY RALPH MUELLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Copch Dave Umnus and his Fox Valley Lutheran High School charges open the 1963 football season Friday night at Weyauwega with a great deal depending on versatility.

Wayne Koenig and Gary Buss could prove to be important keys to the success of the team this fall as both are likely to perform at both line and backfield positions.

Recent experiments by Umnus have been successful enough that the fourth year mentor has named Koenig to start at right tackle and Buss to open at right half-back.

Umnus has left the way open to shift the pair back to their regular positions of last year should the attack bog down. Koenig performed at left half and fullback

Jurgensen, Hill Sign Contracts

Eagle Quarterbacks Say They Got What They Wanted

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sonny Jurgensen, star passer of the Philadelphia Eagles, and his only substitute, King Hill, signed 1963 contracts today, settling a salary dispute that saw them walk out of the club's Hershey, Pa., training camp Wednesday.

"We accomplished what we set out to do," said Jurgensen after a half hour conference with Eagles General Manager Vince McNally.

The talks between the quarterbacks and McNally apparently were not amicable, as the GM at one point ripped the handle off his chair and hurled it across the room.

Jurgensen further indicated the heated air of the meeting when in answer to a question about whether they expected disciplinary action for walking out of camp without leave, replied:

"Just as anxious!"

"There might be some fines, although I think Nick (Coach Nick Skorich) was just as anxious as we were to get this settled."

Jurgensen and Hill left camp because they said McNally had refused to sit down and work out their 1963 contracts.

Jurgensen said that neither he nor Hill represented any of the other four players still unsigned at the Eagles camp.

On the subject of whether he got a salary increase, Jurgensen, who reportedly earned in excess of $25,000 last year, said, "Yes, we got what we wanted. We both got what we came for."

Hill, who had been asked to take a cut, also said he was satisfied. He reportedly earned in the neighborhood of $20,000 in 1962.

Both players refused to disclose salary terms and said any such comment would have to come from McNally.

Kenny Lane Wins Magazine Award

NEW YORK (AP)—Kenny Lane has won Ring Magazine's designation as Fighter of the Month for August for his victory over Paul Armstead.

The left-handed veteran clearly outpointed the Californian on Aug. 20 in Lane's hometown of Muskegon, Mich., winning Michigan's version of the world lightweight title.

Few changes were made in Ring's ratings, with none at all in four divisions—heavyweight, welter, bantam and flyweight.

Rhinelanders Visits Hawks Friday Night

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Will 1963 be the Year of the Hawk — just as '61 and '62 were?

A good slice of the answer may be forthcoming Friday night at Goodland Field when the opening game of the Fox Cities football season will be contested.

Xavier High School's Hawks, titans of the Fox Valley Catholic Conference the last two years and rated the No. 1 Catholic grid team in the state last season, will take on a potent public school representative, Rhinelanders. Kick-off time is 8 p.m.

Xavier, unbeaten since the middle of the '60 season, has won 22 straight games — longest win streak of any major school in the state.

Biggest Rebuilding Job

With all but three regulars claimed by graduation, Coach Gene "Torchy" Clark three weeks ago began his biggest rebuilding project in the school's 5-year history. On paper, the Hawks don't appear quite to measure up to their 1961 and 1962 potency.

But neither friend nor foe will be caught selling Xavier short. Not after the Hawks' rocket-line burst to Wisconsin athletic prominence.

In 1961, Xavier outscored its nine football foes by an average margin of 33.6 to 4.1. Last year the explosive Hawks averaged 37.3 points per 48-minute game, while allowing only 4.7.

Rhinelanders, considered by Clark to be one of the Hawks' two or three strongest foes this season, also brings an impressive

Injuries Ankle

The Foxes' supporters suffered a scare earlier this week when Wolslegel injured an ankle. Examinations, however, proved the injury to be only a slight sprain, and the top ground gainer is ready to go.

Coach Keith French—like Umnus—is beginning his fourth year at Weyauwega. He has 15 lettermen and has been practicing since August 15, about four days prior to the Foxes.

The Indians lost heavily in the backfield but are expected to have another good-sized line this season.

The game is scheduled to start at 8 p.m. and will be the first of eight games for FVL this fall.

Wills to Return to Dodger Lineup for Series With Giants

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Shortstop Maury Wills will be in the Los Angeles line-up for the start of the season's final series between the Dodgers and the San Francisco Giants.

Wills is in Spokane, Wash., where his wife Gertrude had a stillborn child. Maury left the Dodgers last Sunday night.

Team Determined to Bounce Back

Chuters Have 9 Lettermen

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

LITTLE CHUTE — After St. John High School's first winless season under the leadership of Coach Bill Fitzpatrick during the 1962 campaign, both Fitzpatrick and the Dutchmen are determined to change things in 1963.

However, the veteran mentor says, it is going to take a solid team effort.

"Young and inexperienced are the two best words I can use to describe the team," Fitzpatrick said as he surveyed his roster of candidates.

Only 33 players are currently working out with the varsity and 26 freshmen took out equipment Monday and began workouts this week.

Lack of Size
The lack of size has Fitzpatrick particularly worried. In the past, Little Chute teams have been anchored by some linemen in the 220-235 pound range. This season the heaviest man on the squad weighs in at 196 and he is the only one on the squad that can top 190.

Nine lettermen are back from last season but even here the Chuters' youthfulness stands out as one is a senior and eight are juniors. There are a total of eight seniors on the team, 13 juniors and 12 sophomores.

Of the nine lettermen, only three were starters during the season. End Dave Van Vreede, quarterback Mike Weyenberg and halfback Bruce Hammen are the veterans with any considerable amount of experience.

Hammen is expected to be the top offensive threat in the backfield as sophomores are expected to take over starting roles at the other running spots. Gary Romensko and Tim Wegand have been working at halfback and fullback, respectively.

Van Vreede came along fast as a sophomore and by the end of the season was one of the better receivers for the Dutchmen.

Weyenberg shared the quarterback duties with Dan Hurst last season until later in the campaign when Hurst moved to fullback and Weyenberg went to signal calling full-time.

Strong Defensive Unit Nearly Intact

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN

Coaches Bernie Heslton and Glenn Drahn won't be sending their Midwest Conference football teams against each other until Nov. 9, but they're already disagreeing in the predictions league.

When Lawrence College's Heslton heard Wednesday that Coe's Drahn had picked the Vikes and the explosive Hawks averaged 37.3 Ripon as co-title favorites, he commented "That's one of the nicest compliments paid me in a long time" but intimated that his coaching rival may be a little out of touch with reality.

Heslton's own rating system listed as many as five teams with a better chance than Lawrence — the top three of Ripon, Grinnell and St. Olaf, plus Coe and Grinnell.

Though he played his traditional role of pessimist on the team's potential record, the veteran Vike leader made no attempt to conceal this enthusiasm over the size of the turn-out.

Dodgers' Lead Cut to Five as Cubs Win in 11

Surging Cardinals Push Streak To Seven Games

BY MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

In the big book of baseball strategy you walk a guy like Billy Williams to get at Ken Hubbs. So the Dodgers did.

Their National League lead is now down to five games over second-place St. Louis.

Hubbs, who led the league in strikeouts with 129 last year and was equally proficient at hitting into doubleplays, crossed up the book Wednesday night by lining a two-out single in the 11th inning that gave the Chicago Cubs a 2-1 decision over first-place Los Angeles.

The Dodgers' board of strategy held its meeting after Andre Rodgers led off the 11th with a single and moved around to second on a sacrifice. With two out, it was decided to give Williams—who out-hits Hubbs by about 50 points—an intentional walk.

That decision lopped a full game off the Dodgers lead over the

Spahn Blanks Pirates On 4 Hits for 60th Shutout of His Career

LEE MAYE'S HOMER IS DECIDING BLOW OF PITCHER'S DUEL

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Amazing, ageless, wondrous, great, fabulous, fantastic, dazzling, incredible, you name it. They all fit the Milwaukee Braves' Warren Spahn.

The 42-year-old southpaw, who rewrites the record book virtually every time he takes the mound, fired a four-hitter for his 19th victory in blanking the Pittsburgh Pirates 1-0 Wednesday night before a crowd of 6,219 at County Stadium.

Given all the cushion needed on Lee Maye's homer in the third inning, Spahn posted his 19th victory of the year and No. 346 of his career while lowering his earned run average to 2.42.

En route to his finest season since a 24-7 mark in 1953, Spahn recorded his fifth shutout of the season, boosting his lifetime total to 60, with just 93 pitches. He struck out four and walked only one in stopping the Braves' three-game losing streak.

Spahn, who has lost just five games, outduelled Bob Friend, who surrendered a mere three hits before being lifted for a pinchhitter in the eighth inning. Friend absorbed his 13th defeat in losing a bid for victory No. 17 on Maye's homer.

Packers Have 10 Rookies, But 4 Cuts Remain

Grimm, Aldridge Two of Brightest Newcomers on Team

GREEN BAY (AP)—The champion Green Bay Packers have 10 rookies remaining in camp but will have to make four more cuts to get down to the National Football League roster limit of 37 on Sept. 10.

The newcomers were hard at it Wednesday as the Packers continued preparations for the final exhibition game, set for Saturday night with the Washington Redskins in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

There were no hints about which players might go in the final roster cuts. However, defensive coach Phil Bengtson observed, "that's a lot of newcomers for a championship team."

Among the bright new faces is offensive guard Dan Grimm of Colorado, who can kick off and whose booming tackles have made an impression.

Pleanty of Duty

Another of the top candidates is the Packers' first draft choice, Dave Robinson of Penn State. He and Ed Holler of South Carolina State are expected to see plenty of duty with the linebacking corps against the Redskins.

Bidding for a place in the defensive backfield are Chuck Morris of Mississippi and Gary Kroner of Wisconsin. Kroner is also a place kicker, which may improve his chances.

Almost sure to stay is defensive end Lionel Aldridge of Utah State, who started against the New York Giants Monday night. Trying to beat him out of a berth is Tony Liscio, who played with the College All-Stars and got a late start on the Pack's system.

Bidding to understand blocking end Ron Kramer are Jan Barrett of Fresno State and Marv Fleming of Utah. Qualifying as a rookie, even though he played a year of Canadian football, is Bob Jeter, the former Iowa star, who is trying for a place as a flanker.

Another newcomer trying to make the defensive unit is Urban Henry, a former Los Angeles Ram. He is one of Green Bay's seven defensive linemen.

surging Cardinals, who extended their longest winning streak of the season to seven games as Ken Boyer's 100th run batted in provided the decisive score in a 6-5 victory over the New York Mets.

Part of Spotlight

Meanwhile, Milwaukee's Warren Spahn grabbed part of the spotlight with a sparkling four-hit, 1-0 victory over Pittsburgh that gave him 19 victories for the season, the 60th shutout of his career and seventh place on the all-time list of winners with 346 triumphs.

In other games, Willie McCovey hit his 35th homer and Orlando Cepeda collected No. 26 as San Francisco walloped Houston 8-3 and pitcher Dennis Bennett provided the go-ahead run in Philadelphia's 3-2 decision over Cincinnati.

The Cubs opened the scoring against the Dodgers in the sixth on singles by Rodgers and Ellis Burton and a sacrifice fly by Ron Santo. The Dodgers tied it in their half on doubles by Jim Gilliam and Tommy Davis.

It stayed that way until the 11th when Hubbs stroked his decisive hit and wound up the night with a sparkling defensive play.

The slick fielding second baseman who set a major league record for consecutive errorless games last year with 78, bailed reliever Lindy McDaniel, 11-4, out of a hole in the bottom of the 11th when he fielded Willie Davis' grounder with one out and nailed Marv Breeding trying to score from third base. McDaniel then got Lee Walls on a fly to end it.

Stan Musial drove in three runs with a two-run homer and a sacrifice fly as the Cardinals built a 5-1 lead. The Mets rallied for four runs in the top of the seventh with Ed Kranepool's fourth hit producing the tie. Then, in the bottom half, NL batting leader Dick Groat doubled and Boyer followed with the decisive hit. Sam Jones, 2-0, got the victory.

Larry Bearnarth, 3-7, the 'loss' The Giants, again playing without Willie Mays, scored six runs in the fifth inning—three on Cepeda's homer—to come from behind and whip the Colts. Jack Sanford, 14-12, was the winner, with Dick Drott, 2-12, the loser.

The Phillies broke a tie against the Reds with two fifth inning runs on a walk, a double by Bobby Wine, and singles by Bennett and Tony Taylor. Bennett, tagged for a homer by Frank Robinson, brought his record to 8-2. Jim O'Toole, 17-12, suffered the setback.

Wichita '9' Wins Non-Pro Crown

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Wichita's Dreamliners won their second consecutive National Non-Pro Baseball Tournament Wednesday night with a 5-4 victory over the Ponchatoula, La., Athletics.

way in right for his 11th circuit blast of the year.

Spahn surrendered two harmless singles until he ran into his lone trouble in the eighth.

Donn Clendenon led off with a single and took second as Bill Virdon drilled a hit to right. Both runners moved up on a sacrifice and pinchhitter Ted Savage was walked intentionally to fill the bases and set up a double play.

The Braves' strategy worked. Bob Bailey grounded back to Spahn, for the start of a pitcher-to-catcher to-first twin killing. Spahn then mowed down the Pirates in order.

The victory gave Spahn sole ownership of seventh place among all-time winners, breaking his tie with Tim Lincecum. His next target on the list is Kid Nichols, who posted 360 victories between 1890 and 1906.

The Braves and Pirates wind up their series tonight. Bob Sawdowski, owner of a 3-5 record despite a 2.63 ERA with the Braves, is scheduled to oppose Pittsburgh rookie Tom Parson, recalled from the minor leagues this week.

Marion Ladewig and Bomar Will Bowl in Indians' Baseball Park

CLEVELAND (AP)—Bowling stars Marion Ladewig and Buddy Bomar will roll exhibition matches on an alley set up on two trucks near home plate as a preliminary attraction when the Indians play the New York Yankees here Sept. 17.

Mrs. Ladewig, seven-time a ll star tournament champion, will bow against Jean Justin of Cleveland, and Bomar, who has 80 scores of 300 to his credit, will

Major Leagues to Mark 100,000th Game Friday

Jerry Lewis Will Lead Team for Exhibition Tilt

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thanks to comedian Jerry Lewis and his ballplaying buddies, the Washington Senators are scheduled to take part in a baseball milestone Friday—the 100,000th major league game.

For Senator fans, who have seen their team tied for last in 1961, last in 1962 and last all this season, any distinction is appreciated.

Lewis will lead a band of Hollywood All-Stars in a pregame exhibition against a team of Washington press radio and television delay for 20 minutes the start of the Washington-Cleveland game. Otherwise the Milwaukee at Philadelphia game might have qualified for the honor.

Senators officials had scheduled

Lewis and his team—including singers Pat Boone and Fabian, Philip and Dennis Crosby, and Hugh O'Brien—in hopes of jacking up the team's sagging attendance figures. Word that they'd play the majors' 100,000th game caught them flatfooted. Said one official: "If we'd have known about this earlier, we'd have scheduled appropriate ceremonies. We might have arranged to give something away, something symbolic."

At last report, Senator officials were busily thumbing through references trying to find out how you celebrate the playing of baseball's 100,000th game.

The Senators' opponent, Cleveland, played in the first major league game 92 years ago. They lost that one 2-0 to the Fort Wayne Kekiongas May 4, 1871, at Fort Wayne, Ind.

This was a game in the National Association of Professional Baseball Players, first of seven big leagues that have operated.

It took a good deal of record searching at the National Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., to determine just when the 100,000th game would be played.

Commissioner Ford Frick announced the results of this investigation Wednesday.

According to the Hall of Fame calculations, 99,998 games will be played through tonight—barring postponements. Two-night doubleheaders in Baltimore and Pittsburgh narrowed the field to New York, Philadelphia and Washington, where single games were scheduled.

The New York game was ruled out because it is scheduled to start five minutes before the scheduled game time in Philadelphia and Washington. It took Lewis and his gang to break the tie.

WHY WE CARRY GANT

We believe that Gant shirts have a certain well-bred look that distinguishes them from all others. Careful tailoring and adherence to a strict tradition are qualities indigenous to Gant. The emphasis here is on meticulous detail in a heritage of conservatism. In addition, "needled into the ways and woof of every Gant shirt", there's flair-fit-show — three vital inredients that make all the difference when a man wears Gant.

We chose Gant because they take shirtmaking seriously. They're hard to please (like we are) when it comes to fit of collar, its roll, its profile — how much it shows above the suit collar. They're fastidious about the way the body of the shirt drapes and folds. All must integrate to achieve that viable ingredient which gives comfort and aplomb.

Gant comes from the expert craft of New England's finest shirtmakers. The craft explains why the careful details of these Gant shirts have been many times imitated but never duplicated.

Mays Doesn't Blame Giants

Willie Mays Busting But Is Slated to Play Friday Night

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays, in the final day of a half-work rest from nervous exhaustion, doesn't blame anyone in the San Francisco Giants organization for his second bout with fatigue within a year. "I believe everybody in the organization knows I don't blame them," Mays told The Associated Press Wednesday from his San Francisco home. Mays slumped to one knee Monday while bunting against Chicago and was immediately sent home to rest. He won't put on a uniform again until Friday night, when the Giants open a three-game series with Los Angeles. Mays, a reported $100,000 center fielder who is used in virtually every game unless he is hurt, also collapsed last September and missed four days of play. "I could and this year it is tougher than ever," explained Giants Manager Alvin Dark. "We had only 23 players. Everybody had to play and everybody was tired." The need to carry two young bonus pitchers on the roster has trimmed Giants bench strength. Dark said "there was no spot where we could take Willie out. We had to play him where there was a spot we could win. Everybody's tired. Harvey Kuenn is tired. Most of the players are tired. Willie just played until he was completely exhausted. We had no way of telling how tired he was."

Assault, Battery Charge Filed Against Pinson by Writer

CINCINNATI (AP)—Earl Lawson and Vada Pinson haven't gotten along for some time. Now the Cincinnati Reds' center fielder is up for a hearing on an assault and battery charge filed by the sportswriter. Pinson allegedly grabbed Lawson's shirt Wednesday night in the Reds' clubhouse after Cincinnati dropped a 2-3 decision to Philadelphia. The quarrel involved an article in Tuesday's Cincinnati Post & Times-Star that said Pinson does not bunt enough and may lose the National League's batting crown as a result. "He grabbed me by the shirt and pushed me up against the wall," said Lawson, who was slapped by Pinson once last year. "I walked away from the clubhouse and found a phone and called police."

Pinson was booked and released on $500 bond pending the hearing scheduled in police court today. "I have always done what the Manager (Fred Hutchinson) wants me to do," said Pinson, who is third in the league with a .321 batting average. "I'm not taking my orders from Earl. I'm taking my orders from Hutch. Whatever Hutch wants me to do, that's what I'm gonna do."

Matey Takes Merchants' Pin Honors

Bill Matey swept opening honors of the season in the Merchants Bowling League at the 41 Bowl with a 235 game and a 657 series. Seven teams won three of four points to take an early lead in the standings. Only two other bowlers recorded honor counts. Carl Treichel had a 575, and Tom Kronor fired a 550.

Jeff Vander Velden Hurts 3-Hitter In Playoff Game

KIMBERLY — Van Elzen's Orchards won the championship of the Kimberly Softball League by taking the final game of a playoff with Dollevet's Painting and Decorating, 19-3. Jeff Vander Velden fired a 3-hitter for the winners and was backed up by a 20-hit attack. In the playoff series, Van Elzen's took the first game, 6-2, and Dollevet's came back to take the second contest, 11-10.

Vander Velden, Hank Peerenboom and Jim Nirschl led the hitting for the winners in the final game with four hits each. Tom and Hank Peerenboom each had homers. Bob Phelan was the losing hurler for Dollevet's.

Hank Peerenboom was the leading hitter in the playoff set with nine hits in 13 trips, including four homers.

Jordan Penalized by Conference Because Of Football Camp

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Francis Jordan High School which violated Catholic Conference rules by permitting its players to attend a summer football camp "will play without honors this fall." Conference athletic directors decided Wednesday night that Jordan will be permitted to play its football schedule, but each opponent will be awarded a forfeit victory. The Jordan players attended Camp Francis, near Rhinelander, for 10 days under the direction of football Coach John Christman. Jordan officials reported the violation when they learned football camps are prohibited. Froehling Upsets Aussies' Emerson World's No. 1 Amateur Loses; U.S. Has 4 in Quarter-Finals

World's No. 1 Amateur Loses; U.S. Has 4 in Quarter-Finals

BY WILL GRIMBLEY
FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—The back of the Australian tennis dynasty is broken—and some of the most telling licks were dealt by a stringbean cannonballer from Florida anxious to avenge a big snub.

"It was the greatest tennis I ever played, and I couldn't have picked a better time to play it," Frank Froehling III of Coral Gables, Fla., said excitedly Wednesday night after pulling off one of the biggest upsets of the year.

He knocked out Roy Emerson of Australia, rated the world's No. 1 amateur, with an explosive service and volleying attack in the fourth round of the National Championships 6-4, 4-6, 9-7, 6-2. Although second ranked nationally, Froehling had been overlooked by Davis Cup selectors and the seeding committee this year.

The victory erased the last Australian from the field, marking the first time since 1950 that Australia has been shut out of the men's quarter-finals.

Steady Parade
 Australians have dominated the men's championship since 1953, winning with a steady parade of champions that included Ken Rosewall, Mal Anderson, Ashley Cooper, Neale Fraser, Emerson and Rod Laver.

It puts an entirely different aspect on the Davis Cup challenge round, to be contested in December in Adelaide, Australia.

Going into the quarter-finals, half of which will be contested today, are four Americans, Froehling, Marty Riessen, Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston, two Brazilians, Ronald Barnes and Thomas Koch, Mexico's Rafael Osuna and England's talented but erratic Bobby Wilson.

Wilson, who smashed young Cliff Buchholz of St. Louis out of his path 6-3, 6-0, 6-1 Wednesday, is Froehling's next opponent. They meet in one of the two men's matches today, with Ralston and Barnes clashing in the other.

The other two men's matches Friday send top-seeded McKinley, the Wimbledon champion, against the sensational, 18-year-old Koch, and Osuna against Riessen. McKinley, his bad back apparently well, thrashed Larry Nagler of Los Angeles, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

In the women's division, Margaret Smith, the Wimbledon queen and defending champion, plays England's six-foot Christine Truman and Deidre Catt of England faces Mrs. Yola Ramirez Ochoa of Mexico in matches today.

Former Champion
 On Friday the remaining women's quarter-final schedule sends former champion Maria Bueno of Brazil against Nancy Richey of Dallas and second-seeded Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., against Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones of England.

Miss Catt provided the tournament its second major upset of the fourth round by beating the popular Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, the seeded No. 3 player and Wimbledon runner-up 2-6, 8-6, 7-5.

Froehling apparently battled his way back into the Davis Cup pe-

Thursday, Sept. 5, 1963 Appleton Post-Crescent C5

ture, although it is too late to substitute him in the squad already named to face Venezuela at Denver Sept. 15-18.

Emerson said Froehling would have to be ranked with McKinley and Ralston at the top of American tennis.

Any Number Can Play This Homemade Fishing Game

BY CAPPY DICK

The homemade fishing game [have the highest total point value at the end of that time as the winner of the game (Copyright 1963)]

From short cardboard cut a number of fish shaped as in Fig ure 1. Make several sizes—some six inches long, others five inches long, others four inches long and still others three inches long.

At the bottom of each fish cut a narrow flap which, when folded outward, will serve as a prop to hold the fish upward.

With a paper punch, make a neat, round hole in each fish's head.

On each fish paint a point value, making the largest worth the most points and the smallest the fewest points.

For each player prepare a fish pole (Figure 2). This is simply a thin stick with a string and a hook tied to it. The hook is made from a paper clip.

To play the game, place the fish on the floor as in Figure 3. Give each player a fish pole. The players surround the fish and attempt to snare them on their hooks.

Set a time limit, such as five minutes. The player whose fish

True. Absolute honesty is rarely attained by either men or women. As people grow up, they learn to cover up their weak points and to magnify their strengths — a kind of dishonesty. Each of us at times judges with the truth "ap propriates" something that is not really ours, and fails to attain complete honesty in relationships with others. Actually, few of us know what is really true. So we do the best we can with what knowledge and strength of char acter we have.

Who go crazy soonest? Cats — Dogs —

Cats says Professor Kurt Riez ler. He claims that experimentally subjecting caged cats to all kinds of difficulties can make them go crazy fairly easily so that they cower in a corner and will not eat for days. With dogs it's an other matter. Dogs become anger-kind of dishonesty. Each of us at ed at such treatment but seem times fudges with the truth "ap propriates" something that is not really ours, and fails to attain complete honesty in relationships with others. Actually, few of us know what is really true. So we do the best we can with what knowledge and strength of char acter we have.

Colony Oaks Owners Frustrated Trying to Get Sewers Installed

BY WILLIAM C. CARRY

Consider the plight of the owners of the 130-acre Colony Oaks subdivision on the city's southeast fringe. Theirs has been one of frustration. For several months the owners patiently have been waiting for the City of Appleton to put in an interceptor sewer to serve that entire area.

Because the utilities are not in, they have been unable to start construction of homes on the land which was platted and subdivided a few years ago.

Appleton Men
The Colony Oaks Subdivision owners—Land Associates, Inc.—are a group of Appleton men. They have dedicated land to the city for streets and utilities.

In addition, they have been paying taxes on the bare property without receiving city services.

The developers estimate they will be paying the city $10,000 a year in taxes "for nothing."

They say their land in Colony Oaks was given an assessment boost amounting to more than $100,000 this year.

Unfortunately, the Colony Oaks owners are caught in the middle of a squabble.

Eugene Garvey, who also owns property in the area, was not happy with the street arrangement in the subdivision area several months ago but agreed to a compromise proposal the city arranged.

The third party in the controversy over where a certain street would go and who had to dedicate the necessary land for it is Clarence Baetz.

Milton Fischer and Chester Meiers, representing Land Associates, along with Garvey and Baetz agreed a few weeks ago that if the city could get the board of education to turn over a strip of land, the location of a street and problem of installing the sanitary interceptor sewer would be solved.

Everyone Agrees
Baetz had said this would be agreeable to him as did the other principals when they went with city officials and staked out the proposed street.

Everyone breathed a sigh of relief, including the members of the board of public works, the council's street-sanitation committee and the city plan commission, because the impasse apparently had been overcome.

The city thanked the board of education for agreeing to donate land to the city from one of its future school sites in the area.

Change of Heart
Then came Tuesday's meeting of the city plan commission when everything was to be made official.

Land Associates and Garvey said the arrangement worked out by the city for their benefit would be fine. However, Baetz had a change of heart which completely deflated the street-sewer interceptor project.

Baetz demanded that if he was going to dedicate a portion of land for a street, the city should make a deal with him to make property along the street assessment-free.

Baetz' latest demand went over like a lead balloon and several

June Runs Poor 3rd to August In Marriages

June, the traditional month for brides (and grooms) is running a poor third in the number of marriages performed in Outagamie County, County Clerk Mollie Pfeiffer has revealed.

August witnessed the most weddings so far during 1963 with 107 vows exchanged. May saw 85 couples taking the leap and June had 82 applications.

Most unpopular month for bride and grooms was March with only 11 applicants. Marriage license officials stated that March is traditionally slow with the approach of Lent.

Total number of marriages performed in Outagamie County since January is 510, records show.

Also available in the clerk's office this week are 4,600 sportsmen's licenses, 6,000 small game licenses and 5,300 resident deer hunting licenses. Miss Pfeiffer also said that applications for the managed goose hunt at Horicon Marsh which must be postmarked by Sept. 10 also are available.

TV Favorites of Polka, Waltz, Western Tunes Coming to Cinderella Ballroom

BY JINGO

Old time music and television exposure have been parlayed into something of a going concern for a combo of musicians out of Madison. The Cinderella Ballroom this weekend will test the parlay when it books in Dick Sherwood and his music makers. Sharon Klein will warble with the outfit for this gig.

Sherwood is a television favorite thanks to his 6 p.m. Saturday exposure on Channel 5. The Dick Sherwood show is one of the attempts made by the worthy managers of the Green Bay stations to keep its local identification.

The repertoire of the Sherwood aggregation ranges throughout the file of the kind of music that once held sway. Western tunes, polkas and waltzes.

Bending one's ear to the "dance" music coming out of most radios and juke boxes, one would believe that the prevalent music actually is the non-music of the twisters and the rockers. The management of the Cinderella, however, contends this is not so. It says the biggest crowds gather to dance to the kind of music dancers have been using for 10 these many years.

On the Labor Day weekend, the Cinderella booked in Li'l Wally, a merchant of the polka with quite an articulate pen. Wally's views on the misconception of the casual radio listener may be of some interest, so here they are.

Live it up! Listening or dancing to a polka is a happy feeling, regardless of what nationality you are.

Even if polka music is not exposed by major radio stations or newspapers, only by the local stations and publications, polka music is loved by millions. If the major stations and newspapers would give us a break and expose polka artists and their recordings, like they expose other music, I am sure that many polkas would be in the top 40 charts, nationally it seems to me, that when a polka promo record is given to a major station, they seem to feel you are giving them a record no one wants to hear.

According to my estimation, they feel that Polkas have a very limited appeal or that the music is only for the older folks.

From my experience and personal appearances, in many parts of the country, I have seen larger crowds at a polka dance than many of the crowds coming in for modern dancing. I think this is a feather in the local polka DJ's cap.

I am looking forward to major stations giving equal time to promote repeat times to show the pitfalls of polka music or introducing which he in wait for beauty con-a new polka record. I would like test winners — and losers but to see the stations ask their listeners all too black-and-white Carol teners to write and give their opinions of their favorite songs.

Let the listener's letters make up her hand and figure in the New York modeling business.

Disney Won't Follow Animal Show Pattern

Producer Hibler Works With Wild,
Tame Subjects in Filming New Concept

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The boy-meets-girl format is a show business cliché, but an even more rigid form governs the animal story. That plot reads as follows: Boy gets pet, pet does something wrong, pet saves someone's life, all is okay.

But that unchanging formula, used literally thousands of times in films and televisions, is carefully avoided in the NBC television shows made by Walt Disney.

Hibler is in charge. Disney nature films are of course always on the side of the of Disney's nature stories, is an animals. Recently a Disney crew expert in a special story form has been patiently staked out in that combines film of wild life with the southern California hills, photographing coyotes hardly one of the more lovable species. They will turn out in a television film, however as a comedy gang of animal toughs called "The Hollywood Boys."

Hibler's technique consists of using two casts of animals. There are the wild animals, captured on film by men who patiently wait in blinds, platforms in trees, in baskets swinging from cranes. (One intrepid photographer covered himself with a bison skin and mingled with a buffalo herd to get close-ups.)

Then, for the story portion, Hibler uses what he calls "controlled" animals—the trained tame or "more likely" semi-trained.

Lots of Unused Film. These two elements are delicately stitched together. But one such film represents a more difficult job than shooting the average hour long dramatic show.

In editing the average television or motion picture, two or three feet of film are thrown out for every foot used, Hibler estimated. In our nature stories, we use about one foot for every 15 or 20 shot.

The camera's basic equipment, he added, is "patience, perseverance and a good telephoto lens."

American audiences he has found, identify best with animals they know something about, particularly animals native to this country.

Cats and dogs are the very best, he conceded. But almost any animal that looks cute and soft and pettable is a popular subject.

There are exceptions to all.

Sovereignty — A One-Way Street

There was an illuminating contrast this week between school integration in Alabama where Gov. George Wallace surrounded the high school in Tuskegee with state troops to enforce his edict postponing the opening of the newly-integrated school, and other cities in the South where integration was carried out peacefully.

Desegregation came without incident to four white high schools in the Louisiana capital city of Baton Rouge. Eleven Negro children sat down with white students in four Charleston, S.C., public schools, marking that state's first integration below the college level. Additional Arkansas schools were opened to Negroes for the first time in Little Rock, Hot Springs and Pine Bluff. Four more county school systems in Florida were integrated, and Georgia saw Savannah, Athens and Valdosta join Atlanta as integrated cities.

But in Alabama, the school board of Tuskegee was under a federal court order to integrate the high school and proceeded to carry out its responsibilities under the order. Shortly before the school was to open Governor Wallace issued an executive order saying the opening was being postponed "because of the threat of violence." And Tuesday morning state troopers turned away teachers and students trying to enter the building.

Wednesday he moved state troopers to Birmingham where three public schools were to be integrated under court order. There violence broke out after two Negro pupils registered at a white grade school, one Negro was killed and many injured. Governor Wallace's intervention in Birmingham was directly responsible for that violence.

Meanwhile Governor Wallace was railing at President Kennedy and the Federal government for interfering in the sovereign affairs of Alabama.

But what does Governor Wallace have to say about the complaint of the Tuskegee school board and the parents of children wanting to attend that high school that the state of Alabama is likewise interfering in the community affairs of Tuskegee and Birmingham?

Door County Publicity

When Gov. John Reynolds, sentimental grandson of a Door County pioneer that he is, set up a temporary executive office at his summer home in the peninsula during the last month, he methodically arranged to have all his announcements and news bulletins datelined "Jacksonport," the village in which he spent his holiday.

A U.N. Sponsored War?

Early this summer the United Nations Security Council authorized a United Nations attempt to settle the dispute between royalist and republican forces in Yemen. The republicans had recently overthrown the monarchy but the backers of the king were still attempting to turn the tables. But the war really kept going because the United Arab Republic and Saudi Arabia were actively backing the participants with arms and soldiers.

The vote on the Security Council was 10-0 with the Soviet Union abstaining rather than vetoing the action because Saudi Arabia and Egypt had agreed to pay the bills. Secretary General U Thant had estimated that the solution would take two months and cost $400,000. But the two months are up and there is no change in Yemen except that the money is gone.

According to some reports, the Egyptians did indeed remove their troops as they promised but they promptly replaced them with fresh men. Crown Prince Feisal did indeed order a halt of shipments of arms and ammunition but the Saudi convoys continue to roll. The Egyptians now say they can't take out the 20,000 troops until Saudi Arabia stops its agitation. And the Saudis charge that Yugoslav pilots of United Nations observer planes are really spies for the republicans. There is suspicion that the Russians are actively helping the republicans now too.

The head of the United Nations team in Yemen has resigned but has politely refrained from saying that the whole thing is impossible. It would appear that as long as Egypt and Saudi Arabia think they have a chance of success they will continue to foment the civil war rather than save face by submitting to U.N. dictates. It may even be that they'll cough up another $400,000 for the privilege of fighting a war a few more months while nominally in the good graces of the U.N.

New Feud in the West

There is a new battle raging in the West that will be familiar to TV viewers. The sheep raisers and the cattlemen are feuding but this time the argument is not over land or grazing areas but about what might be supposed to be a common enemy, the coyote.

Protests years ago by sheep men about coyote ravages on their herds brought in the Federal Government and a particularly deadly poison called 1080 which is restricted to government use. Old sheep were fed the poison and their carcasses were left for the coyotes who then died. But so did the scavengers who ate the dead coyotes, including the already decreasing bald eagle.

But the cattlemen are aroused because the dearth of coyotes meant a tremendous increase in the rodents on the plains, particularly of the little pocket gophers. The cattlemen have organized to protest. They claim that hay production has been cut by a third and that land that once could support 500 cattle now feeds only half as many. Irrigation is impossible because of the condition of the land riddled by gopher holes.

A new poison is being tested for use on the gophers. But some cattlemen insist that the best answer is to let the coyotes come back. They point out that all coyotes are not to blame for a few dead sheep and it would be wiser merely to frighten the predators away from sheep herds. Wholesale wiping out of gophers and other rodents may simply create some new problem.

Mankind must continually experiment to use nature for his own purposes. But often, when the balance of nature is drastically upset, the results are worse than the original problem.

What Do Your Children Read?

The type of books read by children may have effects on the rise and fall of nations, according to a report to the International Congress of Psychology.

If children read the achievement type of books of the Horatio Alger type, it produces achievers and a rising civilization. But if they read books reflecting a desire for power, it leads a nation on a path of aggression and decline. That is the theory.

The psychologist found that the United States is thus declining in the desire for achievement and rising in the desire for power, while the opposite is true in the Soviet Union.

The researcher also attempted to correlate childhood reading with individual psychological problems. He divided deaths having psychosomatic origins into two categories, the repressive, due to inhibitions of emotions, producing ulcers and high blood pressure; and the aggressive, murder, suicide and alcoholism. And using United Nations reports on death rates, he arrived at these findings:

"Frustrate a Frenchman, he will drink himself to death; an Irishman, he will die of angry hypertension; a Dane, he will shoot himself; an American, he will get drunk, shoot you, then establish a $1,000,000 aid program for your relatives. Then he will die of an ulcer."

We have heard many presentations lately about the importance of encouraging our children to read. If the psychologist's findings are true, we had better also try to influence their choice of reading matter and bring Horatio Alger back into popularity.

Colonel Has Great War Record

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Aug. 29, 1962.

Since last Feb. 1, Colonel Wilder, of Rosencrans' army, has been 28 times through the rebel lines. He has taken 1,137 prisoners, about 4,000 horses and a small army of slaves.

In his last expedition alone he took about 600 prisoners, 800 horses and 200 slaves, killed 10 guerrillas and mortally wounded Colonel Grant. He lost but one man, Private Stewart of the 17th Indiana.

He has hung five and shot 15 rebels, including a second lieutenant caught with our uniform on, in accordance with the orders of Gen. Rosencrans.

Wilder is chief of the famous mounted infantry.

Bragg's army is perhaps the worst shattered and demoralized army in the field. Desertions, disease and hardships have made it but the wreck of its former self and there is little probability this rebel force will offer any considerable resistance to Rosencrans, even if he were to march through Georgia to Savannah.

Allen-Scott Report

In Case of Republican Deadlock, Nixon Will be Waiting in Wings

Although former Vice President Nixon has been out of the limelight lately, there is a lot of talk about him among Republican politicians.

They are buzzing over two intriguing backstage reports:

(1) That while in Cairo recently, for meetings with President Gamal Nasser and other officials, Nixon proposed representing Egypt in the U. S. for a $2 million fee. Egypt is one of this country's big foreign aid beneficiaries. Last year, in surplus food stocks alone, Egypt got more than $102 million worth for its own currency — which remains in that country. In effect, these "sales" were largely a give-away.

(2) That there is an "understanding" between Nixon and Governor Rockefeller under which, if the New Yorker falls in his bid for the 1964 presidential nomination, he will throw his support to Nixon. Former Governor Thomas Dewey, close to both men, is the reputed mastermind of this plan.

According to the inside account, Nasser "seriously considered" Nixon's proposal for several days. But in the end, no agreement was reached.

Since 1963, neutralist Egypt has obtained $992,834,000 in economic aid, loans, credits and surplus food from the U. S. Of this tremendous assistance, approximately two-thirds — $575 million — was extended by the Kennedy administration.

In addition to the nearly $1 billion in U. S. economic aid, Egypt has received another $1 billion in military and economic assistance from Russia.

While Egypt has a large and active publicity organization in the U. S., it does not have a "legal representative" as such.

During the Eisenhower administration, Dewey represented Turkey in that capacity for large fees. As a NATO ally, Turkey has received around $4 billion in economic and military aid. Of this immense total, more than $2.5 billion has been in military assistance, the remainder economic.

Apparently Nixon's intent, according to this backstage report, was to do for Egypt what Dewey did for Turkey.

MUTUAL INTERESTS — Inside reports of a "working arrangement" between Nixon and Rockefeller have been prevalent in GOP circles for some time. They are based largely on the following factors:

Both leaders are known to be opposed to Senator Barry Goldwater. Both have close ties with Governor Dewey also anti-Goldwater. Nixon still has strong presidential ambitions, and considers himself the logical compromise in the event of a deadlock at next year's convention. Party insiders credit Dewey with anticipating a stalemate and the likelihood of a handwagon swing to Nixon. Dewey is said to have Rockefeller's assurances of support for Nixon.

Significantly, much credence is given these backstage reports by former California lieutenants of Nixon. They are convinced Nixon is still running for the White House, and that Rockefeller will back him if he can't make it himself. Also that Dewey is maneuvering to play a potent role at the San Francisco convention.

Nixon plans to make a number of speeches in the coming months in key centers. He will chiefly discuss foreign affairs and Kennedy administration policies in dealing with them.

POLITICALS — John D. Rockefeller IV, nephew of Governor Rockefeller, is getting a new Washington job. He is shifting from the Peace Corps, where he was in charge of the Philippines desk, to the state Department, where he joins the staff handling Indonesian affairs. Apparently anticipating living in the capital for some time, young Rockefeller has bought the home of Representative Robert Berry, R-N. Y. . . . Latest westerner to come out for Senator Goldwater is Lieutenant Governor Paul Laxalt of Nevada — the only Republican to win state office there last year. Already party leaders are talking of running him for governor in 1966. . . . Former President Eisenhower is telling friends he is compelled to spend less time on speeches and politics because of running behind on the deadlines of his forthcoming memoirs. The first volume will be published in the winter.

DEMOCRATIC SPARKS — The White House is taking soundings in New York on how Commerce Undersecretary Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., would run against Senator Kenneth Keating, R., next year. Roosevelt is very eager to make this race, but the President and his political lieutenants want to know how much strength, if any, Roosevelt would add to the ticket, which will be headed by the President. . . . Inside reason for the unpublished visit to California of Lawrence O'Brien, chief of White House liaison with Congress, was to "advise" Assembly Speaker Jesse ("Big Daddy") Unruh to "pipe down." The White House feels the bulky politico is too bumptious and causing too much feuding among Democrats. The President's California essential for reelection, and doesn't want Unruh to do any boat rocking to further his own ambitions for governor.

Being chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, which has several hundred thousand dollars in campaign funds for distribution, has made Senator Warren Magnuson, Wash., very popular as a speaker. He is much sought after at party rallies, particularly fund raising affairs for colleagues. Senator William Proxmire, Wis., who is putting on a second fundraising dinner in Milwaukee this month, is making strenuous efforts to induce Magnuson to be on hand. . . . Representative Jack Shelley is busy angling for White House backing for his San Francisco mayoralty ambitions, but the outlook isn't promising. The President is sore at Shelley because he was home campaigning when the foreign aid authorization bill was clobbered in the House. Shelley didn't even take the trouble to get a pair to offset his absence.

Aroused Conservation Sentiment in State Is Sporadic and Fitful

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The curiously sporadic character of the "conservation" sentiment of this state, where issues of natural resources have always ranked high in public interest, might be worth a moment of reflection by those who are concerned.

Wyngaard

That there is a latent but powerful conservation ethic in Wisconsin is periodically demonstrated, as when the legislature arose as one man not long ago in response to what it believed to be overwhelming public sentiment to make sure that the Wolf River in its northern reaches shall be forever denied to the dam builders.

This legislative episode was remarkable. The lawmakers passed not only one law to intercept a current project in Langlade County. They followed up that prohibition with another that absolutely foreclosed any stream obstruction from the south Shawano County line to the distant headwaters in Vilas County.

POWER

There was no lobbyist calling signals on the sidelines. But there was a considerable outpouring of mail and telephone calls from rank and file trout fishermen, campers and others who are aware of the beauties of what comes close to being the state's famous river.

Altogether, it was as useful an example of the basic public sympathy on conservation issues that has been offered lately.

THE CONTRAST

But there are strange contrasts.

The other day a leader of the legislature addressed a meeting of the new Wisconsin Council on Conservation Resources and told its members and officers bluntly but quite truthfully that it has not yet approached the status of a legislative force on conservation issues which was set out as its goal when it was formed a year ago.

One of the representatives of the new state-wide group has inspired more antagonism than sympathy. As a unit, moreover, the Council has not yet made an impression. The average lawmaker has no awareness of its existence, or of its identity as a voice of civic opinion. One reason may be the marvelously inept name it has given itself, betraying probably the bureaucratic training of some of its founders. But perhaps more important has been the evident failure of the rank and file of the conservation supporters of this state to recognize it, join it, and support its aspirations.

There is yet another contrasting incident involving a natural resources issue as basic as any that can be named. The legislature is in the process of scuttling the modest highway billboard control law that was enacted two years ago to be effective on the limited mileage of the Interstate highways within the state.

BEAUTY AS AN ASSET

Scarcely anyone can deny that one of the state's economic resources is the tourist traffic, and that it is indispensably based on the scenic attractions of the state in large part. Nor can anyone deny that some of the principal highways of the state have degenerated into billboard alleys and that such atrocities are directly endangering the scenic value of the Wisconsin outdoors.

Yet the billboard regulation issue in the legislature, central to the conservation creed of all those who can see beyond the rudimentary question of mallard limits and squirrel seasons, has been fought out in a virtual vacuum thus far.

The conservation lobby might not exist, for all the effect it has had on the legislature's deliberations. Lined up on the other side of the question, meanwhile, are articulate, determined and powerful interests willing enough to exploit the public domain for their own purposes. Conservationists on the whole have not yet equated beauty on a river with beauty on a public road.

Dullness Is No Virtue, Especially in Religion

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Show me a man who mistrusts others, and I would not trust him with a shoe lace of my own; our opinion of mankind is the refracted opinion we secretly hold of ourselves.

Harris

I have never understood why it is that we contemptuously discount a person who praises himself — yet when he forms an institution or a corporation and does the same thing, we accept his self-praise with respect and submissive credulity.

Speaking of self-praise, one of the most amusing and informative books is Darrell Huff's "How to Lie with Statistics," which shows how modern mountebanks can use figures, charts and percentages to achieve any effect they care to. I especially enjoyed his chapter on "The Gee-Whizz Graph."

Pious people who impute a virtue to their dullness have done a great disservice to religion, by making it easy for sinners to dismiss heaven as a place filled with intolerable bores. Religiosity without charm or humor creates more rebels than converts. God cannot be solemn, or he would not have blessed man with the incalculable gift of laughter.

Candor in the arts is the most dangerous device a man can use — many great novels have estranged their authors from society, for society fears it will be too pitilessly depicted. "Every time I paint a portrait, I lose a friend," John Sargent wistfully remarked.

It is difficult for some personalities to understand (until too late) that doing nothing is a form of doing something — and often its most disastrous form. The refusal to make a decision is a grave decision.

The best and most succinct argument against the necessity of "equal rights" for women was given long ago by Samuel Johnson, when he told a friend: "Sir, nature has given woman so much power that the law cannot afford to give her more."

We can see how little real meaning such words as "liberal" and "conservative" have, when today the liberal is clinging tenaciously to the strictest letter of the Constitution, while the Conservative is busy trying to pry loose some of the nails on the Fifth Amendment. History loves to play havoc with our neat little political pigeonholes.

Businessmen's Income Lowest Since 1929-33

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Today, you, as an employee in the U.S., get more than 71 cents of every $1 of our total national income—the highest ratio ever.

While the speed at which you're increasing your share of the national income pie has slowed in the last couple of years, the percentage going to you in the form of wages, salaries and fringe benefits has continued to climb steadily throughout the entire postwar period. Most spectacular has been the upsurge in your fringe benefits, particularly insurance. In 1948 your fringe benefits accounted for 2.6 cents of the national income pie. Now they account for 5.9 cents.

Today you, an unincorporated businessman or professional, get only 8 cents of the national income pie, the lowest ratio since the depression years of 1929-33.

Chilling Light

The squeeze on you the small businessman, has been relentless and your retreat would show up in an even more chilling light if the government separated your income from the professional man's, for the income of professionals has risen in recent years.

Today, you, the person receiving interest on a savings account, bonds or other investments, are in the best position since pre World War II. Your share of the national income pie is up to 5 cents, against 1.9 cents in 1948.

During World War II interest rates plunged and then were frozen at extraordinarily low levels to help the U.S. Treasury finance the war at the cheapest feasible rates. But since 1950 interest rates have increased substantially.

Who's biting how much out of the national income pie?

The Dept. of Commerce has just issued its annual report on the national income, disclosing that, of 1962's total $453.7 billion, employees got $322.9 billion, unincorporated businessmen and professionals got $36.5 billion, receive ers of interest got $23 billion. But the dollar figures are so huge they defy comprehension and the story comes through only when translated into percentages. To continue.

The share going to corporation profits before taxes is down to 10.4 cents against 14.7 cents during the Korean War boom. Today's profit share is slightly higher than in 1958, though, and there are signs that the squeeze on corporation profits is easing.

Farmer's Share

The share going to the farmer has sunk to a startlingly slim 2.9 cents of every $1 compared with 8 cents as recently as 15 years ago. The farmer's relative loss of the national income pie is the worst of all groups. About the only offsetting factor is that many millions have abandoned farming so there are fewer to divide the dwindling slice.

The person receiving income in the form of rent has lost, while the person receiving income in the form of dividends has gained. The share going to rental income is down from 3.3 cents in 1948 to 2.6 cents. The share going to dividend income is up from 3.2 to 3.7 cents.

The major gainers obviously have been the employee, the receiver of interest and to a lesser extent the receiver of dividends. The big losers clearly have been the farmer, the corporation and the unincorporated businessman and to a lesser extent, the receiver of rents.

Income Pie

The saving grace for the losers (and the winners) is that the income pie is so much larger that even a relatively smaller slice can "feed" millions satisfactorily. The pie's size has more than doubled since 1948—from $223.5 billion to $453.7 billion. Here's a table showing who has been biting how much in percentages.

Year	Wage-sal. Fringes	non-inc. bus. prof.	farm. Owners	net int.	rent inc.	corp. prof. bef. tax	div. inc.
1948	63.1	10	8	1.9	3.3	13.8	5.2
1950	63.7	9.7	8	2.3	3.7	14.7	3.8
1952	64.7	9.2	5.2	2.4	3.5	12.9	3.1
1954	66.8	9.2	4.2	3.0	3.6	11.2	3.3
1956	69.1	9.1	3.2	3.3	3.1	12.0	3.5
1958	70.1	8.8	3.7	4.0	2.9	10.1	3.4
1960	70.8	8.3	2.9	4.4	2.9	10.7	3.5
1962	71.2	8.0	2.9	4.9	2.6	10.4	3.7

Trieste Returns To Boston Harbor

BOSTON (AP) — The bathyscaphe Trieste is back in Boston after a 17-day search of the Atlantic Ocean floor for signs of the sunken atomic submarine Thresher.

The Trieste returned to port Wednesday, but information on the outcome of her five dives was withheld pending report to Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth.

The Thresher was lost April 10 with 129 men aboard during a test dive 220 miles east of Boston. A previous search by the Trieste was termed unsuccessful, although some debris was sighted.

Reinhardt pleaded guilty to two counts of disorderly conduct Tuesday.

Appleton police arrested Reinhardt Monday. Judge Keller delayed sentencing on a motion by Reinhardt's attorney who wanted more investigation.

Knight to Take Over At Duke University

Former Lawrence President Leaves Wisconsin With 'Enviably' Record

Dr. Douglas M. Knight, president-elect of Duke University, Durham, N. C., assumed his new duties this week, succeeding Dr. Deryl Hart.

Elected to the Duke presidency last November, Dr. Knight comes to Duke from Lawrence College, Appleton, where nine years ago he succeeded Dr. Nathan Pusey, who had left to become president of Harvard University.

Prior to going to Lawrence as President in 1954, Dr. Knight was for eight years on the faculty at Yale University, from which he holds the A.B., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees.

A 42-year-old scholar of English literature, Dr. Knight has compiled an enviable record as president of the small liberal arts college and as a participant in educational programs both at the regional and national levels.

He is a member of the Board of Trustees of Education and World Affairs, a new organization formed earlier this year, with financial support from the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation, to promote cooperation and communication among educational institutions in this country and abroad.

During his tenure at Lawrence, the book value of the college's physical plant doubled, faculty salaries were increased substantially and the college a $2 million matching grant in recognition of its achievements.

Former President, O. A. Hansen, Retires From Post After 38 Years

M. E. Olson was elected president of Outagamie County Bank today by the firm's board of directors to succeed O. A. Hansen, who is retiring after 38 years with the banking institution. Hansen will continue as a director of the banking firm. His career in the banking field spans

He joined the Appleton bank as a bookkeeper in 1939, becoming an assistant cashier a year later and cashier in 1963. He was elected a director of the firm in 1954. Olson has continued his studies in the field of banking for several years, completing the three-year course of the Graduate School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin and taking many courses in the local study groups of the American Institute of Banking.

Motorist Not Hurt When Car Leaves Road

A motorist escaped injury early this morning when his car spun out of control, knocked off two guard posts, rolled down a 30 foot embankment and ended up in a creek near the 2000 block of E. Newberry Street, Appleton.

Alfred J. Cummings, 38, 503 E. 14th St., Kaukauna, was cited by police for traveling too fast for conditions after the accident. He said his car hit loose gravel and spun out of control. Police said they could find no gravel in the area.

Henry Groeschel, Who works at an Appleton lumber yard, built the "coffin" in which magician Ron Fable will be sealed. Fable will attempt to duplicate the escape performed by the master artist Houdini. His feat will be performed during the first day of the state Houdini Club's convention. The event is set for Sept. 13-15. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Work on $1 Million Store Allowed by Rezoning Move

Building of Appleton Branch Of Arlan's to Start in Spring

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Construction of a $1 million Arlan's department store-supermarket complex on Appleton's northeast fringe will start in the spring of 1964.

A spokesman for the national chain made the disclosure today on the heels of Wednesday night's action in which the common council rezoned a seven-acre tract on the west side of Ballard Road between Longview Drive and Pershing Street.

The rezoning — from residential to commercial-light manufacturing — brought to a climactic head an issue which fanned the flames of controversy for several weeks.

The rezoning was approved by a 14 to 4 vote after a move to deny the request was defeated by a 14 to 6 roll call. Alds. Al C. Fischer (15th) and George Buckley (14th) boycotted the meeting after their attempt to block the rezoning failed.

As an aftermath to the 20-minute, explosive deliberation, there was speculation today whether the City of Appleton will have 19 or 20 aldermen. Buckley stalked out of the council chambers during debate with the threat he was going to turn in his certificate of election. Such an action would be an act of resignation.

The city clerk's office reported this morning that nothing had been received from Buckley, who is serving his first term as an alderman.

Little To Say Fischer, in whose ward the shopping center development is to be built, had little to say and emerged from the proceedings verbally unscathed.

The common council played to an audience of more than 50 persons, most of them northeast side residents who had previously appeared at public hearings and registered protests to the proposed shopping center.

Regional and local planners were on record that the proposed development was in keeping with good planning and indicated that commercial activity would be inevitable in the area selected by Arlan's for its third store in Wisconsin. Others are at Milwaukee and Madison.

More Access?

Because there had been considerable objection to the rezoning from residents who feared that Pershing Street would become "a superhighway" because of traffic generated by a shopping center, the common council requested the street — sanitation committee to study the feasibility of having ingress and egress from Ballard Road.

City Planner Walter Rasmussen said he saw no objection to the firm having one main driveway off Ballard Road but indicated he did not favor a series of entrances and exits springing off the thoroughfare.

Ald. Alvin Tews (5th) tempered the tone of the rezoning by introducing a resolution requesting an effort be made to use Ballard Road to handle some of the shopping center traffic. Several residents said this would be satisfactory to them.

Aldermen had just completed a discussion on the shopping center driveway situation when Buckley took to the floor and indicated he wanted to talk on Arlan's and its subsidiaries.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell rapped his gavel and raised the question as to whether discussing the firm was germane, stressing that the matter before the council was rezoning.

Buckley took strong exception to the interruption and declared, "If I can't reveal this information as an alderman, then I will turn in my certificate to the council." After the vote on his motion to deny was defeated, Buckley stalked out of the city hall.

Return to Room

Fischer also left the council chambers and conferred with a group of residents who had assembled on the first floor. He and Buckley were not present for the roll call on the motion calling for approval of the rezoning, which was concurrence in the recommendation of the city plan commission.

Fischer returned to the council room after the meeting adjourned.

Before Buckley and Fischer made their exit, they were targets of remarks by Alds. Ervin J. Bogan (20th) and Kenneth Loos (3rd).

Appleton Council Okays Rezoning Land

River Street Site Will be Approved For Apartments

A recommendation of the city plan commission to rezone property at 711 E. South River Street for luxury apartment construction was approved by the common council Wednesday night.

Ald. E. V. Krueger (11th) had previously indicated he opposed the proposed development in his ward because of objections raised by residents.

An Appleton resident has plans for a three-stage, $400,000 apartment construction program on the property. He intends to erect the city's first luxury apartments which would rent for $150 to $200 per month.

Multiple Family

The plan commission recommendation was to rezone the property from single family residential to multiple family.

The next step will be holding of a public hearing on the rezoning matter by the common council at 7:30 p. m. Sept. 18. A final vote on the rezoning request will be taken after the hearing.

In other action, the council referred back to the plan commission a second recommendation to rezone lands to various categories in the Mason Heights plat owned by the Garvey Agency. The commission recommended rezoning on the basis of a compromise arrived at a few weeks ago between objectors and the developer.

Ald. Arthur Mueller (19th) vigorously opposed the rezoning, which would be in his ward.

SHIOCTON — Outagamie County Sheriff's authorities are investigating charges of an alleged shakedown and brutalities among workers of a Negro pickle-picking crew here.

Sheriff Lt. Jack Frenz is holding work boss Alex Williams, 49, on an open charge in the Outagamie County jail. Frenz today searched the Williams home at a work camp on the property owned by Harold Anthony and found a .25 caliber pistol which Williams allegedly carried while he oversaw pickle picking this week.

The pistol was loaded and was hidden under the shavings in the small shanty.

Complaints of shakedowns and brutalities came last night when police were called to the work camp to investigate an argument between Williams, a Negro, and Richard Morris, 20, also a Negro, over alleged shakedown practices of Williams.

Takes Money

Both men were taken to Outagamie County jail. Morris said he was with a crew of 13 Negroes and one white man transported from Missouri to here last week. Morris said the workers were required to pay transportation costs and room and board. They were to be paid $10 daily but later were told they would get only half.

Morris and his companions complain that Williams further takes either from two to three dollars from the remaining pay from the workers, who are paid daily.

Williams' wife cooks for the work crew and takes money for each of two meals served daily. The workers claim that if it rains and there is no work, they are forced into a financial hole, from which they cannot get out.

Working Steadily

Eight members of the work crew have stayed on here, and the rest had left after working only a few days. Those that have remained indicated that they had been working steadily through the summer as migratory workers, and this was the first time they had run into such a situation.

Williams transported the work crew from Missouri in a school bus last week. He charged $10 for the trip, and in order for the workers to be returned, they must pay an additional $10.

The workers indicated here this morning that most of them are broke. Anthony, it is believed, is under contract to the Green Bay Food Co., and hires several crews of Mexican laborers as well as Negroes. The crews live in one-room tar-paper shacks off Outagamie County Trunk P about four miles north of here.

Kimberly Will Conduct Tours Of New School

Students to Guide Visitors Through Building Daily

KIMBERLY — Since the opening of the new high school classes, many requests have been received by Ray Hamann, superintendent of schools, for guided tours of the building.

Although work in many portions of the building still is underway and is not expected to be completed for a few more weeks, tours for individuals will be made available starting Monday, Hamann said.

Student council members are being trained to escort visitors through the structure from 4 to 5 p. m. Mondays through Fridays. If interest warrants and student council members are willing, Saturday visits may be planned later.

Dedication Planned

Plans call for area school board members to be invited to tour the building about Oct. 17. Tentative plans are being made for an official open house and dedication Nov. 16 and 17. Crews still are working on the lecture room, gymnasium, art room, industrial arts room and basement portion of the building.

Minor clean-up and finishing must be carried out in some areas and equipment is still arriving for some departments. The gym is expected to be completed about Oct. 1 and the lecture room is expected to be ready for use in about two weeks, noted the superintendent.

Although school authorities and construction crews would prefer people waiting for tours until all the work is completed, tours will be held as scheduled since financing of the $2,100,000 structure is being handled by village and school district residents and all are therefore entitled to view the building, said the superintendent.

Postpone Date For Filing Briefs In Port Hearing

The Civil Aeronautics Board has postponed for one month the date for filing briefs in the CAB's regional airport hearings held at Wausau and Washington.

Outagamie County Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath said today the new date is Nov. 1. He said Outagamie County's brief will be filed well ahead of the deadline. The briefs are final, written arguments to support each party's case. They outline pertinent facts as presented during the hearings.

Police Fire Warning Shots at Youth Found In Oshkosh Station

OSHKOSH — Police early this morning fired several warning shots to halt a youth found inside the Gelhar Car Service filling station, 1024 Ohio St., but the youth got away by running down an alley and between several houses.

Police received a call about the break-in at 12:15 a.m. today and sent several squads to the scene. One of the first policemen to arrive spotted a youth inside the washroom, trying to conceal himself from the policeman's flashlight.

The youth bolted out through a door and ran down an alley as the policeman fired several shots into the air.

The coin box on a soft drink cooler was pried off and only some small change taken. Dollar bills were left untouched.

Appleton Man Pleads Guilty of Theft

OSHKOSH — Ralph M. Schumacher, 30, 1924 Oneida St., Appleton, this morning pleaded guilty of stealing $1 from the Club Terrace where he had been employed. Winnebago County Judge James Sitter set sentencing for Sept. 10 and ordered Schumacher jailed until then. He was arrested by county police Wednesday.

New Catholic Parish to Be Established in Appleton

Former Kaukauna Man Will Serve As Pastor; Building Program Set

The establishment of a new Roman Catholic parish, an offshoot of St. Therese Parish, in northeast Appleton, was announced today by the Most Rev. Stanislaus V. Bona, Bishop of Green Bay.

No boundary lines have been set for the new parish, and a name hasn't been designated. These will be announced later by Bishop Bona.

The Rev. Patrick McMahon, a native of Kaukauna and pastor of St. Hedwig Parish, West Kaukauna, since 1956, will become pastor of the new Appleton parish, with his appointment effective Sept. 12.

The buildings will be erected on now has a membership of about 700 families.

Father Wagner said organization of the new parish will start immediately. Headquarters temporarily will be at St. Therese. Buildings for the new parish will be started as soon as possible, he said.

School Plans

Children belonging to the new parish will attend St. Therese Catholic School this fall, and as many as the school has room for will continue to attend there until the new parish has its own school. Father Wagner said, St. Therese School has an enrollment of 1,144 this fall and has had to limit enrollment because it is filled to capacity.

Father McMahon, pastor of the new Appleton parish, was born in Kaukauna in 1916. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McMahon. He attended Kaukauna High School for one year, and completed his high school, college and theology studies at the Pontifical College Josephinum, Worthington, Ohio, receiving a B.A. degree in 1938.

He was ordained at the college on May 30, 1942, by Archbishop (now Cardinal) Amleto G. Cicognani.

Assistant Pastor

He became an assistant pastor at St. Patrick Parish, Green Bay, in 1942; Sacred Heart Parish, Appleton, in 1944; St. Luke Parish, Two Rivers, in 1946, and St. Mary Parish, Hilbert, in 1956. For a short period in the summer of 1956 he was temporary administrator of St. Patrick Parish, Maple Grove.

Father McMahon was named pastor of St. Hedwig Parish, West Kaukauna, in July, 1956. While there he directed reconstruction of the parish church, destroyed by fire in January, 1962.

The Appleton parish is one of two new ones announced today by Bishop Bona. The other is in the Town of Allouez, and was created by splitting the present St. Matthew Parish. The Rev. William Spalding, director of the Green Bay Apostolate since 1954, has been appointed pastor of this parish.

The two new parishes will bring the total number in the Green Bay Diocese to 188.

a plot about 12 acres in size located south of E. Glendale Ave. and east of N. McDonald Street in Glendale Acres, originally a part of Randall's Woods. The diocese acquired the land several years ago.

7th Parish

The new parish will become Appleton's seventh Catholic parish and the second offshoot of St. Therese Parish. St. Pius X in northwest Appleton was founded in 1957 as a division of St. Therese.

The city's newest Catholic parish is St. Bernadette, which started construction this summer of a school in southeast Appleton. The parish was established in 1960.

According to the Rev. E. A. Wagner, St. Therese pastor, the new parish will have 300 to 500 families. St. Therese now has a membership of about 1,500 families. St. Pius X Parish was formed with about 400 families and may be needed, Msgr. Grill said. Architects for the new building are George G. Narovec and Associates Inc., Appleton. Contractors are Roland Hopfensperger, Appleton, general construction; Wenzel Brothers Inc., Menasha, heating and plumbing; and Reimer Electrical Service, Appleton, electrical work.

Brick and Stone The building will be of fire resistant construction, with a brick and stone exterior. It will be 145 feet long by 57 feet wide, and 39 feet wide at the main wing.

The second floor will house a suite for the pastor and three assistants, two guest suites and auxiliary spaces. On the first floor will be the housekeeper's quarters, kitchen and utility rooms, living and dining rooms, four offices and auxiliary spaces, and a four-car garage. The basement will have storage rooms, meeting rooms, the heating plant and auxiliary spaces.

The new building will be attached to the church through the basement. Future plans call for it also to be attached to the church above ground, but this will not be done at present.

The parish now has two assistant priests, but eventually a third

84 Multi-Family Units Scheduled For Construction

NEENAH — Plans for a million dollar residential real estate multi-family development of 84 units were announced today by Karl Baldwin of the Baldwin Co. and Frederick Churm, vice president of E. R. Construction Co. The development will be located in an area south of Cecil Street and West of Harrison Street which was rezoned by the Neenah council from single family to multi-family use Wednesday night by a 9 to 1 vote.

Construction of four buildings, totaling 36 units, is scheduled to start this fall with 16 units ready for occupancy by April 1 and the other 20 by next August.

Features

Features of the Brookwood development will be underground power and telephone service, coach house post type lighting on each lot to provide street illumination, and swail type curb and gutter.

The land involved is valued at $164,000. Local capital is financing the development for individual ownership. Estimated cost of the first 36 units is more than $400,000.

First construction will be in the pie-shaped area bounded by Fairwood Drive, Brookwood Drive and Hunt Avenue. The multiple family units will be of the Fairwood design developed and copyrighted by E. G. Rohwin, president of E. R. Construction. The exterior construction features redwood and field stone. Carports are provided and a pool and recreation area also will be constructed. The two and three bedroom units feature built-in kitchens of French provincial style.

The area along the west side of Hunt Avenue is zoned for one-story, single family residences, assuring residents of the multiple family units a view over Bridgewood Golf Course from the second floor patios. Identifying features were erected at the entrances to the area.

Policy Set On Driveways

Combined Locks to Require Aprons After Street Improvement

COMBINED LOCKS — Village board members Tuesday night adopted a resolution requiring property owners to install permanent driveway aprons within 21 days after the street adjoining their driveway is improved through permanent surfacing.

The village engineer reported some property owners were slow in putting permanent aprons in driveways. He said run-off rain water drained under the edges of the resurfaced street possibly shortening the life expectancy of the street. The resolution makes it mandatory for concrete or blacktop aprons to be installed in driveways abutting improved streets.

Plat Development

The board voted to require plat developers to furnish copies of proposed and completed plats to the regional planning commission before approaching the local zoning commission or planning board concerning plats.

Developers will be required to furnish two copies to the regional office and that office in turn will notify local officials whether plats are in line with regional development plans and whether the plat is conducive to orderly development of the community.

Alderman Wants Property to be Retained for Municipal Building

Block Walks

Gave the contractor for the new Aid Association for Lutherans building permission to block off portions of streets and sidewalks for a two-year period while a $5 million building is being erected.

Approved a request of the H. C. Prange Co. to carpet the sidewalk in front of its College Avenue entrance in conjunction with a "carpet torture" promotion. Obtained an easement for the major Walnut Street sewer construction project which will be started this fall and continue through the winter months.

Purchased $3,302 worth of equipment for furnishing the new headquarters station next spring.

Construction of a new headquarters station is scheduled for this fall with completion of the building at Atlantic and Drew Streets scheduled for the spring of 1964. City officials have been giving consideration to selling the present station site, a block from the downtown district, to the highest bidder.

Retain Land

Ziemann is asking the board to consider retaining the property as the partial site of a new city hall, instead of selling it and using the money to pay part of the cost of building the new fire station. The city hall now is between Appleton and Oneida streets in an old school building which has been remodeled periodically. Although a new city hall has not been discussed by city officials, Ziemann's resolution will be considered at the next meeting of the board of public works.

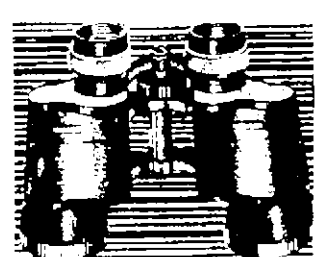

The city reportedly has received informal offers from interested parties to buy the old fire station property when it is abandoned next year.

Warden Says Reformatory Crowding Eased

Credits Fox Lake Institution With Alleviating Problem

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Serious overcrowding at the Wisconsin State Reformatory has been eased somewhat, partly by the opening of a new institution at Fox Lake and partly as the result of improved rehabilitation programs within the institution, Warden M. A. Skaff told the State Welfare Board Wednesday.

In his annual report to the board, meeting at the reformatory, Skaff said the average daily population dropped from a high of 983.7 inmates in October, 1962, to 876.9 last June. This still is above the institution's 623-rated capacity.

While the transfer of inmates to the new medium-security institution at Fox Lake accounted for a portion of the reduction, another major factor is the reduction in the number of inmates returned from parole.

During the past year, only 19.8 per cent of the inmates released on parole, conditional release or juvenile after care programs were returned, compared with 26.9 per cent the previous year.

Treat As Individuals

The success of the institution's rehabilitation program has been accomplished in part by an attempt to treat inmates as individuals.

Several new programs adopted last year were used by Skaff as examples of this theory. Inmates, for example, now are allowed to leave the dining hall as soon as they finish eating instead of leaving in a body as in the past. Inmates also are allowed to attend church services on Sunday with relatives. They also have been allowed to own typewriters, Skaff said.

The opening of a new $800,000 treatment center with facilities for group counseling and social services has aided in the program, the warden said.

The institution still is not without its problems. Skaff said shortages in custodial and in the engineering - maintenance departments are "serious."

Dormitory capacity was reduced from 130 to 80 men because, Skaff said, "adequate supervision was virtually impossible." Even 80 is too many, the warden told the board. In order to reduce the dormitory count, added cots have been set up in cell block corridors.

Lausche Deplores Kennedy Plans for Gromyko Meeting

Meeting Designed to Help Relax Tensions Between U.S., Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, today criticized President Kennedy's willingness to discuss with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko the possible relaxation of East-West tensions.

But Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., replied that, "I think president Kennedy would meet with the devil himself if he felt it would make any contribution toward world peace."

Lausche said in a prepared Senate speech that because Gromyko "deliberately lied" about the presence of offensive Soviet missiles in Cuba last year, "I am loathe to believe that President Kennedy could ever again place any credence in what Mr. Gromyko might have to say."

Meeting This Fall

Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin announced after a White House visit Aug. 26 that Kennedy had agreed to discuss with Gromyko this fall what steps might be taken beyond the limited nuclear test ban treaty to relax tensions.

Lausche said he thought he should caution the President "about the honesty, sincerity and veracity of the man with whom he will explore methods and processes for relieving the existing hypertension that plagues the world today."

"Mr. Gromyko lied once and if given the chance he will lie again," Lausche said. "Were it within my power, I would never again let Mr. Gromyko darken the floor of the White House, particularly when he is scheduled to arrive as a symbol of world peace."

Political Explosions

Because Kennedy labeled the Soviet foreign minister's statements at the time of the missile crisis as false, there has been some fear within the administration that Gromyko's arrival in Washington would be the signal for some political explosions.

Republican congressional leaders are known to be assembling background information on the scheduled meeting. But Senate Republican Leader Everett M.

Rabinovitz Gets District Judge Post

BAILEYS HARBOR (AP) — Sineboygan labor attorney David Rabinovitz said today he had received word of his appointment as U.S. District judge for western Wisconsin.

Rabinovitz was long considered one of the top possibilities for appointment to the seat left vacant by the death last January of Judge Patrick T. Stone. The appointment was confirmed, Rabinovitz said, in a telephone call from Pierre Salinger, President Kennedy's press secretary.

He received word of his selection at a resort in the Door County community of Baileys Harbor.

"I feel deeply honored yet humble at this appointment to this very dignified and important position," Rabinovitz said. "I hope and pray that with God's help I shall receive the cooperation of all concerned to be fair and impartial to all persons of all stations in life. . . . I look forward to serving this post with great desire and enthusiasm."

Civilian politicians have charged that although Park has resigned from the army and will run as a civilian, he and his followers intend to extend military rule through rigged elections.

Fifteen Arrested After Sit-in in Principal's Office

CHICAGO (AP) — Demonstrations and picketing by civil rights groups and Negro parents at six public elementary schools and at the board of education headquarters marked the opening of classes for the fall semester Wednesday.

Fifteen persons were arrested, including seven women and six men who staged a sit-in at the office of the principal of a school on the South Side. The 13, most of them Negroes, were charged with criminal trespassing. One also was charged with resisting arrest.

Two men were seized by police as they sat in a car near the school and played amplified tape recordings, urging a boycott of the school.

"Race Minded"

The demonstrators contend that the school principal, Willard A. Johnston, is "race-minded, and dictatorial and has permitted mistreatment of pupils."

Johnston denied the charges. He called police after the 13 demonstrators had sat in his office about an hour as other demonstrators paraded in front of the school.

Johnston said: "They are gunning for me because I am a white principal of an all-Negro school in an all-Negro neighborhood."

Pickets and demonstrators appeared at five other schools in predominantly Negro neighborhoods. Negro groups have been protesting the installation of mobile classrooms at several schools. Leaders claim the temporary classrooms set up to relieve

MADISON (AP) — Republican State Chairman Talbot Peterson said Wednesday the appointment of a chairman to head a Wisconsin committee to draft Sen. Barry Goldwater for the GOP presidential nomination race shed no light on the Arizona senator's plans for Wisconsin's 1964 preferential primary.

"We are four months away from the moment of decision as far as Sen. Goldwater and any other candidates are concerned," said Peterson in a statement released by the GOP headquarters.

Peterson, of Appleton, commented after the appointment of Wayne J. Hood of La Crosse, a former state GOP chairman, to head the Wisconsin Goldwater committee. The 50-year-old Hood was executive director of the Republican National Committee during the 1952 presidential campaign.

Peterson called Hood's appointment "an excellent choice."

While His Mother, Mrs. Madeline Thompson, argues with a white man outside predominantly all-white Malverne, N. Y., school, Gregory, 8, holds fists ready to counter whatever develops in another quarter, Mrs. Thompson also "corralled" her godson, Michael Rawley, 5. Humid Night and Gunfire Birmingham Scene

BY DON MCKEE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Gunfire spouted with angry concussions in the humid night air on Center Street, making quick orange flashes in the dark.

Helmeted policemen, holding firearms in military fashion, fired in lines of 12 and rushed, yelling and firing their guns into the air.

Crowds of Negroes, some of them hurling bricks and bottles, swirled away from the street corners, retreating into alleys and houses.

Hurried Gathering

The Negroes gathered minutes after an explosion shook the house of attorney Arthur D. Shores, a Negro. His house sits on broad Center Street. In front is a church and to the south is another church.

A group of Negro youngsters ran toward the scene. "Nobody better not be hurt!" one said. They ran on but were stopped two long blocks short of Shores' house. Shores, his wife and 17-year-old daughter escaped injury in the blast.

At half a dozen points in the sealed-off area, policemen chased back the spectators. One cordon of officers formed and raced down Ninth Court, pushing Negroes in front of them.

A Negro Civil Defense captain, James Lay, pleaded with a white police officer. Lay had a megaphone. He had been pleading with the Negroes to disperse. Already two had been shot and one of them died.

"I couldn't talk them into going home," he said. "Talking don't do no good," responded the white officer curtly. "You've been doing a good job but talking won't work."

Two of the policemen looked inside a parked schoolbus. "Come outta there!" one said, brandishing his shotgun.

A young Negro man, his wife holding a baby in her arms, and two other Negro men got out of the bus.

"Lie down! Lie down!" ordered one of the policemen. The Negro mother tried to lie down on the grass with her baby in her arms. She handed the infant to her husband who was on his knees, trying to get down.

"Lie down!" shouted the policemen.

Police Riot Squads Busy Holding Back Screaming Mobs on 'Dynamite Hill'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — The bombing of a Negro leader's home and a wild outbreak of racial violence marked by the fatal shooting of another Negro led to a temporary postponement today of Birmingham's public school desegregation.

Gov. George C. Wallace moved back into the picture with an early morning announcement that the city Board of Education had agreed to close three schools ordered integrated by the federal courts. They opened for registration Wednesday and classes were scheduled today.

An explosion heard two miles away broke a calm of several hours after two Negroes had enrolled at one of the schools.

The home of Arthur Shores had been bombed again — the second time in three weeks.

Screaming Negroes

Screaming Negroes in the neighborhood rushed to the home of the attorney who has been a leader for years in the fight of his race against segregation. Police riot squads poured in.

Rock throwing by the resentful Negroes followed, then gunfire by officers as a melee involving hundreds of Negroes and scores of city and county policemen raged for more than an hour.

John L. Coley, 20, fell with three bullets in his head and body. He died later at a hospital.

At least 20 other persons were injured, two of them Negroes also struck by bullets. The injured included four policemen.

Wallace's announcement from the executive mansion at Montgomery, made through an aide on the scene here, came at 4:20 a.m.

State Troopers

State troopers went on guard with other officers around Birmingham schools early today for the first time. City and county officers had handled the assignment Wednesday.

More than 40 bombings have occurred in Birmingham since 1947, many of them in "Dynamite Hill." A Negro community once densely populated by whites.

Constance Baker Motley, an attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said legal action might be taken to reopen the schools.

"We will probably do something in the next couple hours," she said.

The attorney gave no indication as to what moves might be made. The areas near West End and Ramsay high schools, which were to have been integrated today, were quiet.

Roy Cohn Says He's Victim of Personal Revenge

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy M. Cohn, anti-Communist investigator for the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, says he is the victim of "personal revenge and retaliation" following the indictment accusing him of perjury and obstruction of justice in a stock fraud probe.

Cohn, 36, an attorney, was indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury along with another Manhattan lawyer, Murray E. Gottesman, 36. Both were charged with scheming to prevent the indictment of four men in a 1959 inquiry into a United Dye and Chemical Corp. stock swindle.

Cohn and Gottesman immediately denied the charges.

Wants Soviets to Remove Military Forces From Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., demanded today a formal reservation postponing the effectiveness of the limited nuclear test ban treaty until the Soviets remove their military forces from Cuba.

Goldwater, regarded as a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said he would offer such a reservation after the Senate takes up the treaty next week.

If the Senate adopts a formal reservation, it might require renegotiation of the treaty. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 16-1 last week to recommend ratification without any reservation.

Potential Peril

In a speech prepared for the Senate, Goldwater declared that as it now stands, the treaty is "a potential peril to peace rather than a step toward it."

Goldwater has been a frequent critic of the treaty, but administration forces say they are confident the Senate will approve the pact overwhelmingly.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said today he thinks no more than five Republican votes will be cast against ratification.

Anti-Soviet Defenses Being Built in China

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China has sent 900,000 students to build defenses in Sinkiang Province bordering the Soviet Union, the South China Morning Post reported today.

The British-owned, English-language paper quoted a refugee from Red China.

Faces Obstructing Justice, Perjury Charges Boy Wonder, Famous Communist Hunter and Brilliant Attorney — Descriptions of Roy Cohn

NEW YORK (AP) — At the age of 36, Roy M. Cohn has been a boy wonder as a student and a famous hunter of communists. He is a brilliant lawyer, a boxing promoter, a business man and an eminently eligible bachelor.

Wednesday Cohn was indicted on federal charges of perjury and obstruction of justice stemming from a stock fraud case.

Cohn, who is said to earn $250,000 a year from his law practice, lives in a large apartment on New York's Park Avenue with his mother. His father, Justice Albert Cohn of the

New York state supreme court, died in 1959.

After business hours, Cohn relaxes on the golf course or goes deep sea fishing. He also travels abroad several times a year.

Cohn, an only child, was born in the Bronx on Feb. 20, 1927. He played the piano, went to the Fieldston School in the Bronx, and sailed through Columbia College and Columbia Law School to graduate at the age of 20. He had to wait until he was 21 to take the bar examination.

He began as a clerk in the office of the U.S. attorney for the southern district of New York, was admitted to the bar in 1948, and became an assistant U.S. attorney.

In 1953 Cohn became chief counsel for the Permanent Sen-

Becomes Law Partner

Cohn then returned to New York and became a principal partner in the law firm of Saxe, Bacon & O'Shea.

In 1959 he and some associates took over the ailing Lionel Corporation, founded by Cohn's great-uncle, Joshua Lionel Cowen. The firm then was known chiefly for its model trains.

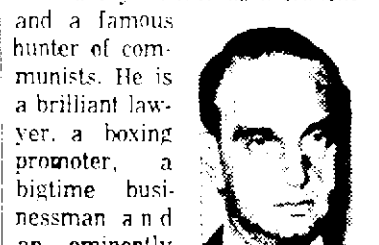

With Cohn as chairman, the company went into electronics

but failed to show a profit. Earlier this year, Cohn stepped down as chairman of the board.

He is an associate of Feature Sports, Inc., which promoted the second Patterson-Johanssen fight.

Cohn also was involved in the fight for control of New York's Fifth Avenue Coach Lines, the bus company seized by the city last year to prevent a strike. He recently resigned as a director of the company and as chairman of two company committees.

During Cohn's tenure with the Senate subcommittee, a young man joined the staff as an assistant and succeeded Cohn as chief counsel. He was Robert F. Kennedy, now the attorney general, whose Justice Department has obtained the indictment of Cohn.

Waupaca Grid Team Ready to Begin Season

Four of Returning Lettermen Not Likely to Play in Non-League Tilt

WAUPACA — Four of the returning lettermen may not see action at 8 p.m. Friday when the Waupaca High School Cornets will be host to P. J. Jacobs High School, Stevens Point, in a non-conference game opening the football season at the athletic field.

Coach Dick Weed said he is regarding the Cornets as the underdogs for Friday's tilt because he does not know what to expect from Stevens Point.

Waupaca probably will be without the services of Roger Green, a running back, who has a broken finger; Bill Leach, a guard, who has been ill; Don Clausen, a guard, who cut off a toe in a lawn mower accident; and Jim Hoffberger, a defensive tackle, who reported late for practice.

Coach Weed reports the Cornets are young and have good speed. "If the guards and tackles hold up, it should be a good season," he added.

Waupaca has four seniors on the team, which consists mostly of juniors and sophomores. The seniors are the two ends and the two running backs.

Defensive Team

Seeing defensive action will be Douglas Kolb, Jay Diley, Bill Braatz and Bob Erickson. Others likely to see action are Dave Peterson, a tackle; Gerald Button, defensive middle guard, and Rick Riddle, a wingback.

Coach Weed said the Cornets looked good against Lincoln High School, Wisconsin Rapids, in a three-way scrimmage with Assumption High School, Wisconsin Rapids. He said Assumption looked very good. The Cornets scrimmaged a full two hours at the Assumption field.

The Cornets will open the Central Wisconsin Conference season Sept. 13 at Wittenberg.

New Holstein Huskies Favorites for Eastern Wisconsin Conference Crown

Power-Packed Squad Opens Grid Season Against Chilton Friday

CHILTON — Size, speed, experience and depth. An abundance of all four has established the New Holstein Huskies as heavy favorites to capture the Eastern Wisconsin Conference football crown.

The Huskies have big, rough linemen, to go with a bevy of speedy backs. Senior quarterback Ken Heiner should be a standout performer on the offense. He is fast and a sharp passer, ideal qualities for the option series used by Huskie Coach Don Rhode.

Little Tom Rebro has excellent speed, and Oran Sattler, a 180-pound junior, is being groomed to replace Lee Spittler, the Huskies' battering-ram fullback who was graduated.

Henry Carstens, 186-pound center; Don Comins, 160-pound halfback; Gary Juno, 133-pound halfback; Bob Keller, 167-pound tackle; Bob Knoespel, 162-pound guard; Willard Knoespel, 145-pound halfback; Jerry Krueger, 133-pound halfback; and Jim Weaver, a 181-pound tackle who has been switched to fullback. Jim Ross, 178-pound quarterback is the only junior letterman.

Ross has good speed and runs the option well. Weaver should develop into a solid threat up the middle as a power runner.

The squad could have more experience, but five lettermen who still are in school failed to turn out for football. The biggest loss is Glen Loeberger, a strong two-way performer last year. He also handled the Lions' punting chores.

Plymouth Outlook

Plymouth — New head coach Del Prust will attempt to emulate the success of his predecessor, Werner Finke, who guided the Panthers to a conference championship and an undefeated season last year.

Graduation extracted a heavy toll from the championship squad. There are only eight returning lettermen. Seven are seniors. They are Scott Johnson, 6-2, 190-pound halfback; Larry Gentine, 6-2, 185-pound center; Jim Karpinsky, 6-0, 175-pound tackle; Doug Doerbert, 5-9, 160-pound halfback; Henry Locke, 5-9, 160-pound guard; Stan Struve, 5-10, 170-pound end; Fred Kulow, 5-10, 155-pound center; and George Nanz, 5-6 and 140 pounds.

Big, fast backs are the squad's strong point and lack of size and experience in the interior line are its weakness, according to Prust.

A promising crop of sophomores Stracka, and Plymouth's Del Prust hold the key. How fast they develop is the question confronting Prust.

Top Receiver

Letter winners returning aside from Arnoldi are seniors Douglas Berger, 170-pound guard; Ted Hahn, 215-pound tackle; David Huennink, 170-pound end; Mike Maurer, 6-3, 170-pound end; Lee Welsh, 185-pound tackle; Lee Wilcox, 175-pound fullback; Robert Fenner, 200-pound center; Dave Franzen, 195-pound end; and Richard Schnell, 175-pound guard.

Oostburg — The Flying Dutchmen, owners of only one win in the last two league campaigns, list six returning numeral winners on this year's squad.

They are Gary Tepas, 180-pound tackle; Gary DeMaster, 150-pound quarterback; Dave Hilbelink, 160-pound halfback; Eugene Veldboom, 185-pound tackle; Carl Tepas, 188-pound end, and Bob Ingels, 168-pound guard. All are seniors.

In Hilbelink, Coach Jerry Kohlbeck has one of the finest broken field runners in the conference. The shifty halfback accounted for several long runback touchdowns last year.

Valders Prospects

Valders — A year ago the Vikings were the league's Cinderella team. Lightly regarded at the outset, Valders rolled to a 7-1 mark and generally was regarded as the best in the conference before the season ended.

Only six lettermen from that fine team are on hand this year for coach Rod Coughlin. They are Dennis Alfson, 175-pound senior quarterback; Dick Durkee, 165-pound senior fullback; sophomore fullback Gary Evenson, and juniors Tom Iselmann, 130-pound halfback; Dennis Scheidt, 6-3, 195-pound end, and Dan Torrison, 165-pound guard.

Iselmann is a speedster. Alfson was a sharp passer a year ago, and he has a big target in Scheidt.

Kohler — Bob Buel begins his fourth year as Blue Bomber head coach with a nucleus of 10 lettermen back from the team that compiled a 2-7 record last year.

Returning numeral winners are seniors Ted Dobrynski, 5-10, 155-pound halfback; Bob McGrane, 6-1, 175-pound end; Tim Regan, 5-11, 180-pound guard; Jim Sietote, 5-8, 155-pound halfback; Ralph Tonn, 5-10, 185-pound guard; juniors Phil Anderson, 5-10, 180-pound halfback; Jerry Bachmann, 6-1, 190-pound tackle; Paul Maki, 6-1, 170-pound quarterback; Dennis Smit, 5-11, 160-pound end, and Jerry Weeden, 5-8, 160-pound center.

Bombers Small!

The Bombers are small and lack depth, according to Buel. Their forward wall, however, is experienced and they have an excellent quarterback in Maki.

Kiel — Twelve numeral winners hold the key to the Kiel Raiders' hopes of improving a 1-8 mark last year.

The Raiders have fair speed and depth defensively. They lack depth in the offensive unit, according to Krentz.

15 Lettermen Back

Weyauwega Opens Against FVL Friday

WEYAUWEGA — The Weyauwega Indians, defending champions of the Central Wisconsin Conference, will open their season Friday night when they meet Fox Valley Lutheran in a non-conference game.

Coach Keith French's Indians will bid for their third straight conference championship this year. Although graduation exercises last spring claimed Jack Wohlt, the leading conference quarterback and nine other lettermen, Coach French will have the services of 15 returning lettermen this season.

Last year, the Indians ended their regular conference season with six wins and one tie, that being with Waupaca. In the two years that Weyauwega has captured the championship they accumulated a record of 13 underdogs.

Other senior lettermen returning besides Barker, Kreise, Parry and Koopp are Dick Acby, end, Rick Birkholz, halfback, Jim Boyson, end, Jim Freer, halfback, Phil Lewin, center, Jerry Phillips, guard, Roy Regel, 6 foot 3 inch 210 pound tackle and Joe Swedensky, guard.

The three returning junior lettermen are, Stan Masaros, halfback, Ron Wangelin, guard and Jim Zempel, a quarterback.

Other members of the squad expected to see action this year are seniors, Dave Henschel, John Wendt, juniors, Lee Hanson at a defensive linebacking spot; Jack Kapitke will see action at a halfback position and also perform the punting duties; Jim Marks, center and guard; Tom Smith, halfback; Bill Weiss, end; Dan Wilson, fullback and Nick Wohlt, quarterback.

Two sophomores have shown promise in practice, French said. They are 6-foot, 2-inch, 220-pound Dan Kester, who will be used as either a guard, tackle or a linebacker and Gaylon Barz, who is working in a guard position.

The Indians will open their regular conference play Sept. 13 when they meet Marion at home. The remaining home games are, with the city fire siren which is 12:05 p.m. and will not interfere with the city fire siren which is 12:05 p.m. The test will be the first for the entire alert-gaming system. Future tests will be away schedule is Bonduel, Sept. 20, Wittenberg, Oct. 1 and Waupaca, Oct. 25.

The Civil Aeronautics Board has postponed for one month the date for filing briefs in the CAB's regional airport hearings held at Wausau and Washington.

Outagamie County Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath said today the new date is Nov. 1. He said Outagamie County's brief will be filed well ahead of the deadline.

The briefs are final, written arguments to support each party's case. They outline pertinent facts as presented during the hearings.

The siren will be sounded at 12:05 p.m. and will not interfere with the city fire siren which is 12:05 p.m. The test will be the first for the entire alert-gaming system. Future tests will be away schedule is Bonduel, Sept. 20, Wittenberg, Oct. 1 and Waupaca, Oct. 25.

Re-Phrasing of Advertising Names, Slogans Shows Some Social Justice

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

If social justice is coming, even piecemeal, to the American Negro, there are some signs along the way. One of them is the re-phrasing of some advertising slogans and another is the re-naming of certain products.

The one which comes immediately to mind is a burley tobacco which has been on the market for many years and known as "Nigger Hair." Because the term is not nice, and because of the protests to the company, the name was altered. But the company did not wish to make the alteration too broadly so that its product would lose its identity and reputation accumulated over many years. At any rate, they made the change to "Bigger Hair" which it has been for some time.

I have been informed that one of the oldest slogans in the history of our advertising now is on the firing line. It is Armour and Company's slogan, "The Ham What Am."

The slogan was created about 80 years ago by a now-forgotten lithographer. The basis of the slogan was that a Negro chef was exclaiming about ham and the implication was that a Negro chef, if anybody does, knows and understands what hams are good and what are not. However, there now are protests. The slogan, say those who oppose it, implies that the Negro making the statement obviously is ignorant and thus the advertisement is unfair and prejudiced.

Bywords, Slogans

Advertising by-words and slogans which have lasted over many years are interesting. Some of them must be altered because of changing times. Some things, because they stopped at every once right, are no longer, more than a few of them fall by the wayside as the years roll on. The name for the bus company, wear Greyhound, was born because of a casual suggestion by a now-forgotten hotel keeper in Fond du Lac. The company was organized rate, it got its name from the surnames of three men who were associated with the company in the year 1876—Brandley, Voochie and Day.

During the Civil War, Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman's troops added significantly to the success of the now well-known tobacco known as Bull Durham.

Railroad Line

The name originally was derived because a railroad built a line across the property of a Dr. Bartlett Durham in Orange County, N. C. A small station was established there when there was nothing but a little tobacco factory, a blacksmith shop and a tavern. It was called Durham station because it occupied property once owned by the doctor. The company, which established the tobacco factory in 1860, specialized in plug and chewing tobacco, but they used clipping and waste tobacco for smoking. They put them into little cloth bags.

When Sherman's troops visited the southland, they emptied the warehouses and generally contrived to steal all they could get. Then, after the Civil War, soldiers and veterans clamored for "the tobacco in cloth bags." It soon went "national" as a result.

To signify the name, the proprietors used a picture of a short-horn Durham bull and the trade mark was registered in 1870. Durham, incidentally, now is a city of about 79,000 people.

Cold Hurting Corn Crop In Wisconsin

MADISON (AP)—Cold weather is posing a threat to Wisconsin's corn crop which could be as serious as earlier dryness, the state crop and weather report noted today.

"The situation is much as it was last year at this time—a somewhat backward crop and cool weather that threatens to stay," the summary added.

It also relayed a weather forecast for September: temperatures averaging three degrees below seasonal normals and near normal rainfall.

In the west and southern areas there was optimism from field observers that most grain will be safe if frost holds off until Sept. 20 and if there is a week or 10 days of so called corn weather.

"If frost comes early or if night temperatures continue low, much of the grain corn will have to go into milage," the summary said.

In all sections there was a substantial amount of green chopping for immediate feeding to cattle, reflecting poor pastures and a need to conserve hay for winter use.

A Green County farmer noted that in his area most pastures served only as exercise fields.

Mrs. Truman Wood, a 35-year-old blue-eyed, blonde is one of the originators of the "Gold for Goldwater" movement in Nebraska. Her home in Omaha is registered as the headquarters of the organization, which is lining up contributions for a Barry Goldwater presidential campaign should he get the Republican nomination next year. Housewife Pushing Goldwater Ticket

Omaha Woman's Campaign Nets More Than $2,000 Each Week

BY BASIL C. RAFFETY
OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Mrs. Truman Wood has a husband, three children, two telephones, an aging car, a newly seeded lawn and a political gold mine.
She does her own housework, sometimes with a lift from her children, the oldest of whom is Robin, 9, and tries to keep the newly seeded lawn wet down. But she has given up bridge, interior decorating and the Junior League.

Mrs. Wood, a trim, vivacious blue-eyed blonde of 35 and a sixth-generation Omahan, is one of the originators and the prime mover in what she calls an astonishingly simple do-it-yourself campaign to make Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona the 1964 Republican presidential nominee. It is incorporated as "Gold for Goldwater of Nebraska," and its registered office is 3410 Seward Street, Omaha, the Wood home. The campaign currently is yielding between $2,000 and $2,500 per week "and I really believe we haven't even scratched the surface," said Mrs. Wood, whose husband is a sales executive for an oil refinery. Contributions to the campaign, which already has enlisted about 1,400 persons in 32 states, are largely in the form of postdated checks from $10 up. They are placed in escrow in the United States National Bank of Omaha under an agreement which pro-could touch their fund raising campaign was a stumbling block. Finally, Mrs. Wood recalled Mrs. Hillmer asked her husband, a paper products company board chairman, for advice. "It's easy," Hillmer replied, "use postdated checks and put them in escrow."

Costs of the movement so far have been met by a $30 contribution from each worker. "If we had stopped to worry about an angel, we'd never have gotten started," Mrs. Wood said.

"People who give money now are committing themselves as workers," she said. It is her ambition to see Goldwater go into the national convention next year with a broad enough base of support to protect him from compromises hatched in smoke-filled rooms.

"We're trying to create a power play of our own," she explained. How much should Goldwater buffs contribute?
"When they ask me that," Mrs. Wood said, "I ask them: 'How much would it be worth to you to have Goldwater the nominee?' then they start to figure."
"We've gotten some money from Democrats—Kennedy Democrats," she reported. "One man sent in a $500 check and instructed his attorney to have his estate honor the check in the event he dies before the check is presented for payment."
Mrs. Wood, daughter of former Republican congressman Howard Buffett of Omaha, lived in Washington for six years as a girl. But so far as politics was concerned, "I was a complete dodo — that's my nickname, — Dodo," she said.

It was not until she attended the 1962 Republican National Convention with her father and saw the late Sen. Robert A. Taft lose the nomination in a matter of hours that her ideas on practical politics began to take shape.

It was a full decade before Mrs. Wood was ready to put her ideas to the test. In 1962 she joined two other housewives in spearheading a campaign to bring the Christian anticommunism crusade of Dr. Frederick Schwarz to Omaha. The five-day anticommunism school was successful though somewhat controversial and $20,000 was turned over to Dr. Schwarz.

Several months later a friend asked Mrs. Wood, a Presbyterian, to help a Redemptorist missionary priest seeking to raise $10,000 for an anti-Communist radio station in a remote area of Brazil.

With the Schwarz crusade still fresh in her mind, Mrs. Wood went to work. With the help of an Omaha priest she even prepared a sermon on communism for the missionary priest, which he used as he went from parish to parish in his home town. Three weeks later he headed back for Brazil with $11,000.

These successes and a growing feeling that ordinary people "have a responsibility to their country to do more than enjoy its privileges," encouraged Mrs. Wood to undertake the Goldwater movement.

"I was talking on the phone with Margie (Mrs. Duane) Hillmer when we got to wondering if there wasn't something we could do," she recalled.

Home Bombed, Negro Killed; Barry Demands Birmingham Schools Closed

few students, who apparently had not heard about the order closing the schools, attempted to pass the lines of policemen and state troopers. They were turned back. Officers, stationed about 20 feet apart, lined both sides of the streets around the schools. They were armed with carbines.

There are Negro residential districts near both of the high schools.

Soon after the outbreak was quelled, the talks between representatives of Wallace and the school board began.

There already had been brief disorders Wednesday at two of the three schools to be desegregated. And six parents had filed suit, with Wallace's blessing, to try to win a stay of the integration.

After the night of negotiations, Wallace in Montgomery issued a brief statement saying: "I have tonight asked the city Board of Education of Birmingham to close until further notice schools at West End, Ramsay and Graymont."

Board Accedes

"The board has acceded to my request and the schools will be closed temporarily."

"The board has also agreed at my request to join in the petition filed yesterday to stay the federal court order integrating these three schools."

It was at Graymont, an elementary school, that two Negro brothers registered Wednesday. They would have started classes this morning with white children. Three other Negro pupils were to register and begin classes today at West End and Ramsay both high schools.

Details of the school closings were left to Supt. Theo Wright.

There remained a question of what results the closing of the three schools would bring in this city, already jittery from the violence and months of racial troubles.

When the outbreak came Wednesday night Wallace alerted 1500 to 600 National Guardsmen for possible duty here and offered to make another 3,000 Guardsmen available. Local police officials said the situation was under control without the help.

The city bulged with police. About 600 State Troopers were on standby in Birmingham but were not requested by local authorities to help keep order in Wednesday night's outbreak and disorders during the day when white segregationists demonstrated.

Six white parents asked a federal judge for an injunction against integration of the schools because of violence. District Judge Walter P. Gwin of Tuscaloosa took the petition under advisement, giving no indication when he would rule. Wallace said his office helped prepare the suit.

In Huntsville, Ala., 12 white children quietly segregated a previously Negro parochial school operated by the Roman Catholic Church. It was the first known integration of an elementary school in Alabama.

The Justice Department was officially silent on developments in Birmingham. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy huddled with aides for several strategy sessions.

Wallace said in a long distance telephone speech to a states rights meeting Wednesday night in Baton Rouge, La., that he had another example of the federal government trying to take over our school system.

Troops Alert

Wallace ordered units of the National Guard alerted shortly after the disorders in the area around the blast-damaged home of Negro attorney Arthur D. Shores.

The explosion came at about 9:45 p.m. Shores' wife and 17-year-old daughter were in the fashionable brick house still under repair from a worse explosion less than three weeks ago.

"My wife was thrown out of bed," Shores said. She suffered a bruised shoulder but he and his family otherwise escaped injury.

Hundreds of Negroes poured onto street corners as policemen quickly sealed off a five-block area around the blast scene.

When policemen firing shotguns and carbines into the air started dispersing the crowds, Negroes threw rocks, bricks and bottles at the officers.

In the melee after Coley was shot, seven other Negroes were hurt, most of them hit by bricks or other missiles.

Car windows were smashed in

Police formed 12 man lines and with their weapons firing into the air chased and pushed the Negroes back.

Sgt. H. A. Barron reported the situation under control at 11 p.m. although there was still sporadic gunfire. Barron said small caliber pistols were fired by residents of the Negro area.

About 150 policemen were required to quell the disorders and all night patrols were assigned to the area.

Bill Hudson, an Associated Press photographer, said bullets hit his car and a window was smashed as he drove through the area.

Johnson Calls Stockholm Talk Excellent Meeting

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson spent 75 minutes in talks with Premier Tage Erlander today and then told newsmen: "It was an excellent meeting."

The two statesmen, who clearly have developed personal bonds of friendship, ranged over the international scene in a private session.

Johnson told a news conference in his hotel suite: "We had a useful and instructive meeting between friendly representatives of friendly governments. It was not a negotiating meeting, but we spoke frankly about the world's economic and political problems."

The vice president's mission to Scandinavia, which began in Sweden and will continue through Finland, Norway and Denmark, is basically a goodwill tour but also is designed to point up the opportunities for greater trading and economic cooperation with the United States.

Morse Hits U.S. Aid to Formosa

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., says the United States helped impose a Chinese "military dictatorship" on Formosa and when the government of Chiang Kai-shek passes from the scene America "may be remembered for the tyrant it foisted on the Formosans."

In one of a series of Senate speeches Wednesday calling for

States to be sole judge as to when and where it will use its nuclear weapons to defend itself or its allies.

"Understanding"

The Foreign Relations Committee, while opposing any formal reservation, wrote into its report an "understanding" to that effect. Cooper said he will support the pact because he considers the risks of the agreement are manageable and in the hope it may lead to other steps to lessen tension and improve prospects for peace.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield told the Senate Wednesday he hoped to obtain ratification by the necessary two-third majority after one to two weeks of debate. The debate is to begin Monday.

"It is not the intention to rush this through," Mansfield assured Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, Republican leader, who asked about the timetable.

Earlier, Dirksen indicated he is likely to support ratification of the pact banning all tests except underground.

Dirksen talked with newsmen after the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which approved the treaty 16 to 1 last week, published a formal report that the balance of risks "is acceptable and recommended its ratification without reservations."

Afghanistan Leader Wants Government Closer to His People

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—King Mohammed Zahir Shah of Afghanistan said today he felt that some constitutional changes will be made in his country in the future to bring the government closer to the people.

The king told more than 100 members of the Afghan Student Association in annual convention here that he looks forward to their return home to help raise living standards.

There will be more and more places in Afghanistan's government for educated people he said in a brief talk in the great hall of the Wren building on the campus of the College of William and Mary.

The king and Queen Mohaira were given a thunderous ovation by the students, who are studying for advanced degrees at a number of American colleges and universities.

sharp slashes in foreign aid. Morse said that if President Kennedy wants specifics on where the program should be reduced, "I say slash it on Taiwan—cut it in Taiwan."

U.S. officials have said the island's economy is progressing rapidly and that U.S. economic aid will be phased out in three or four years.

Lausche Raps Gromyko Talks

Dirksen of Illinois said that it was a delicate matter on which he did not want to take any immediate position.

Humphrey like Lausche a member of the Foreign Relations Committee said in an interview that he is not worried about Kennedy's being taken in by any Gromyko pledges. But he said the President has the duty to explore the attitude of the Soviets.

Soviet Functionary

"Mr. Gromyko is the representative of the Soviet Union," Humphrey said. "He was not selected by the President, who is well aware of his attitudes and reactions. He is merely the functionary of a government with which we must deal."

"Mr. Gromyko can only reflect the attitude of Premier Nikita Khrushchev toward the possibility of easing tensions and that is what President Kennedy wants to know, Khrushchev's attitude."

Terrorists Trying to Thwart Venezuelan Presidential Election

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Interior Minister Manuel Mantilla says Castro Communists are stepping up terrorist raids in an attempt to thwart the presidential election set tentatively for Dec. 1.

Their targets Wednesday included the home of an officer of President Romulo Betancourt's army guard, American oil pipelines and a police post at the oil center of Maracaibo.

Officials said members of the Communist Armed Forces for National Liberation also may be responsible for the fatal shooting of a policeman whose body was found in a Caracas slum.

One of the Negro men was streaming blood from an ugly head wound. He identified him self as Leo Williams.

"I was hit with something I don't know if I was shot or not," he said. Holding a large area cloth to his head, he leaned against a tree in the dark.

One of the policemen summoned an ambulance and another got a pad and began writing down the names of the four Negroes.

"I'm hurt bad. I gotta get to a doctor," said Williams.

"Now just sit down and be quiet," said the policeman. "Don't you get blood on me."

The policemen stood around the tree and the bus. It was becoming quieter now. The crowds were gone. Only an occasional burst of gunfire was heard from another

Vietnamese Victory Over Reds Far Off

Political, Religious Strife Lead
U.S. Military to This Conclusion

BY FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The political and religious turbulence rocking South Viet Nam has caused some key U.S. military men to revise their estimates and predict a longer anti-Communist war—and probably a longer American involvement.

Past predictions that victory over Red Guerrillas might be achieved in three years or so were based largely on an assumption of political stability in South Viet Nam.

Some knowledgeable officers considered that time estimate optimistic, even before the Saigon government began repressing Buddhists last May.

Meanwhile, Secretary of the Army Cyrus Vance is about to leave on a two-week Pacific area tour which will take him to South Viet Nam about the middle of the month.

He will be the first top civilian official from the Pentagon to visit South Viet Nam since the Buddhist troubles broke out.

Delicate Situation
Some consideration was given to striking South Viet Nam from Vance's itinerary because of the delicate situation which finds the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem in conflict with U.S. policy.

Apparently the matter has been resolved in favor of Vance's going to Saigon—but informed authorities indicated he will confine himself to a military inspection and avoid any public comments on the Vietnamese political-religious crisis.

Present plans call for Vance to leave Sunday and stop at Hawaii, Okinawa, Korea, Formosa, Viet Nam and briefly in Japan, where he has been invited to confer with defense officials.

Although Vance ostensibly will pay attention chiefly to the U.S. Army and its activities in Viet Nam, he is expected to give Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara a report on his impressions of the difficult situation there.

Hard Struggle
While outwardly optimistic about the course of the war to suppress the Communists, McNamara has stressed it will be a long, hard struggle.

Adm. Harry D. Felt, the U.S. commander in the Pacific, told a news conference last January that he was willing to stand on a prediction of victory in South Viet Nam in three years.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, Army chief of staff, said in February he was reluctant to fix a time for success. But he said it was possible anti-Communist forces could win control of "the major part of the more usable part of

Speaker Hits Immorality of Tax Spending

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The same strict accountability which the Internal Revenue Service requires of taxpayers should be demanded of tax spenders. President Edwin P. Neilan of the United States Chamber of Commerce declared today.

"We all know that tax cheaters go to jail," Neilan said in an address prepared for a luncheon meeting of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

"Free spending politicians get re-elected.

"So where's the catch?"
"Is it any less moral for the citizen to cheat on his tax return than for the bureaucrat to throw tax money away?" Neilan challenged.

"It is time we opened our eyes to the corrupting immorality of vote buying.

"When we tolerate a pickpocket philosophy in government, we impair the value of the dollar, we rob the aged of their pensions, we defraud ourselves.

"Worst of all we corrupt the whole moral fiber of the nation."

that the Diem government has irreparably lost the support of its people.

No amount of foreign aid can carry Diem's regime to victory, Chuong said. Still, he added, aid to Viet Nam cannot be abruptly stopped without losing it to the Communists.

"This dilemma seems insoluble," he continued, "because almost all of the material forces in Viet Nam are in the hands of dictators who are determined to use the population of Saigon, including the Americans there—and even the freedom of Viet Nam—to blackmail the United States into continuing its aid to a regime which has irreparably lost the support of the people and can no longer lead them to victory."

Chuong added, "the present dilemma can be solved by a coalition of able men of good will, who would firmly stand for national union and reconciliation, justice for all and more efficiency in government."

"Such able men of good will are numerous, but have so far been either silenced and reduced to impotence in Viet Nam, or oppressed into exile."

Chuong quit his post after Diem's brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, raided Buddhist pagodas Aug. 21 and rounded up hundreds of monks and nuns. Mrs. Chuong resigned as South Viet Nam's permanent observer at the United Nations.

Chuong avoided all references in the interview to his daughter, who is Nhu's wife.

Tran Van Chuong, South Viet Nam's former ambassador to the United States, told The Associated Press Wednesday in an interview

Presidential Suite Not Big Enough for Barry at Hotel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The presidential suite at the plush Mark Hopkins Hotel wasn't big enough for the entourage of Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater during next July's Republican National Convention.

So, it was learned Wednesday, Goldwater has reserved the entire 15th floor. And, he'll have company — the other GOP presidential hopefuls.

John Parsons, executive vice president of the hotel, confirmed the reservation, saying that "all who might be considered candidates" have reserved rooms at the hotel, which is across the street from the Fairmont, headquarters hotel for the convention. Parsons said he couldn't name the other prospective candidates who have reserved space "because their offices have asked me not to, but Goldwater's office didn't make such a restriction."

In New York, however, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's office said he had not made reservations at the hotel.

Goldwater, the conservative currently considered to be the leader in the fight for the presidential nomination, "first reserved the presidential suite, but that did not have sufficient rooms," Parsons reported.

That has 11 rooms, whereas the 15th floor has 51 rooms that can handle 76 guests.

The senator reserved more rooms than anyone else, Parsons said. He added that Goldwater's advance contingent is scheduled to arrive a week in advance of the mid-July gathering, with the senator coming in four days before the convention opens.

Staggered Walk-in

dren staged a staggered walk-in at the downtown offices of the board of education. They walked in, one group after another, and their leaders conferred with board officials.

Clair M. Roddewig, president of the board of education who was in his office, but did not see the demonstrators, commented on the picketing and demonstrations at the schools:

"With 530 schools in our system, trouble at four or five isn't too bad. The parents can demonstrate if they want to but it's too bad because the children ought to be in school."

Illinois GOP Workers Back Sen. Goldwater

Opinions Uncovered
In Poll Conducted
By Chicago Paper

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Daily News said Wednesday that most Illinois Republican precinct workers answering a poll favored Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., to be their nominee for president in 1964.

The News said a total of 1,869, or 37 per cent, replied to the questionnaire.

The Daily News said ballots in 7 of every 10 party workers in the state polled by the paper listed Goldwater as the strongest possibility in next April's primary.

The newspaper said former vice president Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 candidate, ranked second with 11 per cent of the party workers.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York was third with 8 per cent and Gov. George Romney of Michigan had 7 per cent.

The Daily News said ballots in kind here.

its poll were mailed to 3,000 precinct committeemen downstate, who are the elected local party leaders, and to representative committeemen statewide.

Goldwater was slightly more popular downstate than in Cook County, with the switches benefiting Nixon, the newspaper said. However, the Daily News added that in a number of instances those voting for Nixon indicated they would also support Goldwater. Rockefeller showed somewhat more strength in Cook County than downstate.

The Daily News said the poll gave Illinois Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter a better than 3 to 2 lead over both Hayes Robertson, Cook County chairman, and Charles H. Percy, Kenilworth businessman, in the GOP primary race for governor.

Not to View Pink Elephants

'Hard-Drinking' Sessions Planned for Safety Interest

Appleton, Neenah-Menasha and Oshkosh are among seven Wisconsin cities selected as sites where citizens will be doing some "hard drinking" beginning in September.

However, the drinking will be done strictly in the interest of science and safety education, not with the intent of viewing pink elephants.

Drinkers will participate in a program dealing with chemical history, procedures and equipment testing for intoxication that is being offered to 3 local safety councils by the Wisconsin Council of Safety in cooperation with the Wisconsin State Patrol.

The program was developed by Col. L. E. Beier, director of the Motor Vehicle Department's enforcement division; Maj. Glen Kissinger, service bureau commander; Capt. John Schoenick, training officer at the State Patrol; Oshkosh, Sept. 16; Appleton, Oct. 17; Neenah-Menasha, Dec. 18; Redmond, Wausau, vice president of the safety council's traffic division. Waukesha, Watertown and Redmond said, "We are offering this program to develop better general understanding of what chemical testing involves. We also believe that by seeing this demonstration, people will develop a more realistic appreciation of the relationship of alcohol to accidents."

The program will include a film on drinking and driving and an explanation of chemical testing procedures, procedures and equipment testing for intoxication that is being offered to 3 local safety councils by the Wisconsin Council of Safety in cooperation with the Wisconsin State Patrol.

In addition, volunteer subjects will drink under close supervision and then be asked to perform certain tests so their physical and mental reactions can be observed as their blood-alcohol level increases.

The program is scheduled for Oshkosh, Sept. 16; Appleton, Oct. 17; Neenah-Menasha, Dec. 18; Redmond, Wausau, vice president of the safety council's traffic division. Waukesha, Watertown and
